Public ICC Hearings On Blast Asked

SILENT RESPECT — Part of a line of 200 Monroe County firemen move into a square around the casket of Marshalls Creek fireman Edward F. Hines yesterday at East Stroudsburg Prospect Cemetery burial. Hines was killed in Friday's truck explosion. The single word on the edge of the canopy over the grave recalles the valor of volunteer firemen such as Hines—"Service." (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Firemen Honor 3 Victims

EAST STROUDSBURG — At yesterday's funeral for Edward Franklin Hines, 42, one of the three Marshalls Creek firemen killed in Friday's truck explosion, the Rev. William F. Wunder asked God's blessing on all the dead and injured left by the tragedy.

Rev. Wunder of the Grace Lutheran Church in East Stroudsburg, officiated at the services in the Lanterman Funeral Home at 3:30 p.m. filled with the family of the fireman, as well as members of the volunteer fire company and friends.

The Hines' bier was draped with an American flag and was surrounded by baskets of flowers.

200 Firemen

After the funeral, a huge cortege moved slowly to Prospect Cemetery where 200 firemen from county fire companies lined the streets at attention as the casket passed.

Marshalls Creek Company members were among the mourners. They were not in uniform.

The uniformed firemen lining the streets will not attend the funerals of Earl Miller and spokesman said that the one Leonard Mosier today. A showing was a sign of respect for all three firemen.

Cars passing on Rt. 80 could see the burial place on a gentle hillside above the road. As the casket was moved to the grave, the firemen in uniform formed a large square around the burial pavilion.

The day was brilliant; almost cloudless.

Rev. Wunder said at the funeral home:

"We ask the special blessing on the bereaved family as they share their sorrow. We ask God's blessing on the other volunteer firemen who answered their last alarm.

"And we ask blessing on John Regina, on Mrs. Lillian Paesch, and on John Horvath, the truck driver who stopped to render assistance.

Credit to Country

"The family has requested the familiar gospel refrain which Eddy loved — 'The Old Rugged Cross.'"

Rev. Wunder read the first and last stanzas, including the verse, "'Then He'll call me some day, to my home far away, where His glory forever I'll share . . .'

The pallbearers for the casket were all members of the Marshalls Creek Fire Co. They were Carl Yetter, Daniel Rupo, Russell Albert, Ralph Miller, Ray Lewis, and Richard Hilliard.

Services Today

Viewings were held last night for the other firemen. The viewing for Leonard Mosier was held at Dunkelberger and Westbrook Funeral Home in Stroudsburg; the viewing for Earl Miller — brother of fire chief Ralph Miller, one of yesterday's pallbearers — was held at Lanterman's.

The funeral for Leonard Mosier will be held today at 2 p.m. in the Dunkelberger and Westbrook Funeral Home with the Rev. Wesley Crowther officiating. Burial will be in the Middle Smithfield Presbyterian Cemetery.

The funeral for Earl Miller will be at 3:30 p.m. at Lanterman's with the Rev. Wesley Crowther officiating. Burial will be in the Prospect Cemetery.

'Explosives' Signs Found Under Truckdriver's Seat

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Daily Record Saturday discovered two signs marked "Explosives" under the seat of the cab which pulled the trailer that exploded in Echo Lake Friday killing six.

One of the major questions in the tragic explosion is whether the trailer was clearly marked as carrying explosives as required by state and federal law.

The trailer was blown to bits and no evidence remains showing whether it was marked or not.

Interstate Commerce Commission investigators may be able to piece together enough trailer parts to determine if it was marked.

Driver's Duty

A spokesman for the American Cyanamid Co. in Wayne, N.J., owner of the trailer and explosives, said yeaterday, "It was the responsibility of the driver to mark the trailer."

Both the company and the driver, Albert Koda, 51, of Port Carbon, claim the trailer was marked according to Interstate Commerce Commission regulations.

But Ralph Miller, Marshalls Creek fire chief, told The Daily Record firemen fighting the blazing trailer before the blast, "Positively did not know what they were fighting."

State and federal regulations require a trailer transporting explosives to be marked on both sides and the rear with the word "Explosives" in letters not less than three inches high. No markings are required on the cab.

Foggy Scene

According to eye witness reports, the area around the trailer was extremely foggy and visibility was limited to approximately ten feet.

Firemen may have had difficulty seeing danger signs on the trailer.

McDonough told The Daily Record that when Joseph H. Horvath Jr. turned in the alarm he told McDonough he would face his truck toward the trailer and play his lights on the scene to aid firemen.

The spokesman for American Cyanamid Co. said the danger signs hang on metal stubs and are fastened down with wing nuts. The signs found in the cab had holes for hanging.

He explained the signs found in the cab by saying, "It is not uncommon for our trucks to carry extra signs. Often times extra signs are needed when explosives are moved from the trailer."

Veteran Driver

He said the company assumes the trailer was properly marked because "Koda has 25 years experience and should have made sure the truck was marked."

The gray tractor cab, left alone at Rehm's Service Station at the N. Courtland St.—Franklin Hill Rd. blinker intersection Friday carried no marking of expolsives, besides the two signs under the driver's seat and a red flag behind it.

The cab door is marked "American Cyanamid Co., Pottsville, Pa." and near the door is a Hertz truck lease service marking.

The 1964 Pennsylvania registration card is issued to M.M. Waterbor Inc. of 235 N. 4th St., Reading, Pa., a Hertz agent.

Road tax registrations and highway use permits from the states of New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Connecticut were also in the cab.

A truck trip sheet was marked only with the word "Mack" and a trip start mileage figure of 18,650 miles. The mileage on the cab now is 18,757, showing the cab had driven 107 miles from its Pottsville departure.

It was going from Pottsville to Fosterdale, N.Y., in Sullivan County near Monticello.

Dr. Kildare Comic Series Starts Today In Record

It is drawn by Ken Bald, an ex-Marine who commanded a machine gun platoon on New Guinea and was later an intelligence officer on Okinawa and in Peking.

Bald is 46, the same age as his character, Dr. Kildare, has enjoyed unbroken success not only in print, but on radio serials, and a succession of movies.

The television Dr. Kildare protrayed by Richard Chamberlain has been a consistent member of the "Nielsen Top Ten" most popular shows on all networks.

Surprisingly enough, Bald draws his characters from real life.

His pretty young nurses are modelled after his former actress wife of the past 19 years, Kaye Dowd, who still graces the video screen with topflight commercial assignments.

Children will most likely be modelled after one of his own five. And Kildare or his young associates will be Bald himself.

"I owe it all to the Poloroid camera," he laughs. "I take stills in various action poses and then draw from the pictures."

Although Bald now lives in Hillsdale, New Jersey, he claims, "I'm one of those rare birds — a born and bred New Yorker who likes living there and working there.

I look forward to returning to the city when we marry the kids off. Right now, though, I feel our ranch house in Hillsdale is best for them."

Rights Workers Hunt Continues

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) —Although the Navy pulled out temporarily to observe the Sabbath, state and federal law enforcement officers kept up their relentless search Sunday for clues to the baffling disappearance of the three civil rights workers who vanished seven days ago.

State game wardens in five radio-equipped boats dragged the muddy Pearl river near here.

In 12-foot, flat-bottomed skiffs, the search parties began combing about 400 yards of the 60-yard-wide river near Yates crossing. The river is only eight to ten feet deep there — usually low for this time of year, and the current is sluggish. The use of skindivers was ruled out because the river is too muddy for underwater hunts.

The National Guard loaned the Highway Patrol two helicopters which took to the air shortly after daybreak to scan the river and land northeast of Philadelphia.

Oswald Diary Spurs Probe

DALLAS (AP) — Publication of a diary written by Lee Harvey Oswald brought a demand for an investigation Sunday from the attorney of the accused assassin's widow.

The lawyer, William E. McKenzie, said, "Marine Oswald feels that all evidence should be given to the Warren Commission and only released by the commission."

The commission is scheduled to report soon on its investigation of the slaying of President John F. Kennedy last Nov. 22 in Dallas. Police say Oswald fired the shots.

Portions of the diary and other writings were published in copyright stories during the weekend by the Dallas Morning News.

Barry Blasted By Scranton

DALTON, Pa. (AP) — In one of his sharpest attacks on Sen. Barry Goldwater since announcing his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination, Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton declared Sunday that Goldwater lacks the qualities required of a president.

Scranton is seeking to comfrom behind the front-runnig Arizona senator in a last-minute bid for the GOP nomination.

Addressing a national televiion audience, Scranton declared in his prepared text: "We need in the White House a leader who thinks clearly, who doesn't shoot frm the hip, who understands that his every word and action will influence for better or for worse mankind's hopes and work for peace with freedom.

Lodge Heads For GOP Fight

HONOLULU (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge headed home Sunday for a wrap-up meeting with President Johnson and a role in the Republican presidential battle.

Lodge, who said Tuesday he is resigning as U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, landed at Honolulu's Hickam Air Force Base after a rousing sendoff from Saigon.

Coin-Making Production Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Steps designed to ease the national coin shortage by raising production 75 per cent during the next six months and doubling it within a year were announced Sunday by the Treasury Department.

By next June production of all coins is scheduled reached an annual rate of over 9 billion, compared to the 4.3-billion level for the fiscal year 1964. The new rate will be triple that of 1961.

GOP Convention Called 'Open'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Republican presidential nomination is still "wide open," the party's national chairman said Sunday in San Francisco, where he is heading arrangements for the GOP National Convention.

No matter who wins the nomination, South Viet Nam will be an issue in November, said the chairman, Rep. William E. Miller of New York—And Sen. Goldwater of Arizona "may not be nominated" next month.

Driver Broke ICC Rule

WAYNE, N.J.—The American Cyanamid Co. flatly stated last night that the driver of a company-owned, explosive-laden trailer broke company regulations when he left it unattended.

"It is our very, very firm and stringent policy that a driver under no circumstances can leave a load unattended," a company spokesman told the Daily Record.

Albert Koda, 51, of Port Carbon, the driver of the trailer that exploded and killed six Friday morning, has admitted he left his trailer that contained 15 tons of high explosives.

Must Guard Vehicle

An Interstate Commerce Commission spokesman said if such a trailer is parked during the course of a trip, either the driver or his helper must remain with the vehicle.

The vehicle must be constantly attended, the ICC spokesman said.

Koda said he left the trailer parked after he blew two rear tires at the Pocono Reptile Farm on Rt. 209 near Echo Lake.

The driver said he unhooked his cab and went to an East Stroudsburg service station to inform the company he would not be able to continue his trip.

The spokesman said the company interviewed Koda yesterday to determine what his actions were before and after the blast.

Koda has given conflicting versions of his actions after his trailer became disabled at 3:15 in the morning.

The company will not issue a statement concerning the tragedy until its findings are complete, according to the spokesmen.

"However, the company is exploring all possibilities and is taking this matter very, very seriously," he added.

When asked if Koda had flashing danger signals on the trailer when he left, the spokesman said, "Our policy is to observe all regulations and many times we go one step further."

Flasher Lights

ICC regulations require a truck driver to set out reflective devices around a disabled explosive truck to give notice of its presence.

The company spokesman said when a truck carrying explosives detonates "it is the real exception."

"Consider the amount of explosives shipped throughout the year. It is like riding in an airplane. The ones that crash make the newspapers," the company spokesman remarked.

The American Cyanamid Co. is based in Wayne, N. J. and is the sixth largest chemical company in the world. The Formica Corp. is one of its subsidiaries.

The company is a diversified producer of chemicals, pharmaseuticals, plastics, agricultural chemicals, building products, pigments and dyes, organic chemicals and textures, the spokesman said.

Penn-Stroud Mattress Fire Put Out

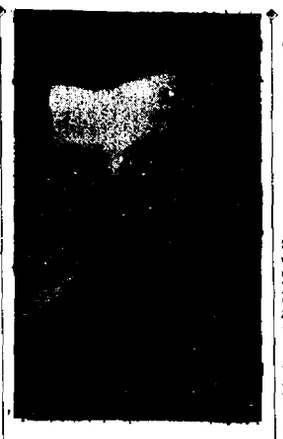
STROUDSBURG — Mattress fire in the second floor rear of the Penn-Stroud Hotel was extinguished last night by Stroudsburg firemen.

Chief Nelson Lightner, Jr. said that Matthew Rais, an employee, was asleep in the help's quarters over the garage when his bed caught fire. Rais had been smoking, and thought he had placed his cigarette in an ashtray. Apparently it fell on the bed, the fire chief continued.

In a statement to the Daily Record last night, Chief Lightner said that he had attempted to discuss the injured employee and "hotel help and employees not knowing where fire extinguishers are and how to use them," with Eric Schuchard, hotel manager.

Lightner said that Schuchard refused to discuss the situation, and told Lightner, "I'm boss of the hotel. You can see me tomorrow morning in my office."

Lightner reported that he had replied that as long as an alarm had been turned in, "I'm fire chief, and we're in charge of the fire."



Rep. Rooney

Probe Urged In Shipping Of Explosives

STROUDSBURG — Rep. Fred B. Rooney, 15th Congressional District Sunday urged a "full scale Congressional investigation into laws governing the shipment of explosives on interstate highways."

After a four-hour tour of the disaster site at Marshalls Creek, Pa. Rooney said:

"The loss of life from this explosion has been a shock to everyone — not only to those who live in my Congressional District — but to every American citizen.

"It seems unbelievable to me that any company would allow the shipment of such highly volatile explosives without adequate safeguards or without providing personell who would be able to stand guard with the shipment in the vent of an emergency of this kind.

"I firmly believe that the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee of which I am a member should review the events leading up to the tragedy with an eye toward revision of the law to provide greater protection for the public.

"I have already asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to conduct a thorough investigation of this terrible accident. I am confident that Frank Doyle, and the members of his field investigation team will do an expert job in this respect.

Fire Near Canadensis

CANADENSIS — A gasoline tank exploded at the Spangenberg sawmill on Lower Seese Hill Rd. near Canadensis at about 7:15 a.m. yesterday, causing an estimated $4,500 to $5,000 damage.

The damages were estimated by Barrett Twp. fire chief George Huguenin.

The alarm was turned in at 8:20 a.m. after a gasoline tank on an engine at the sawmill exploded for an unknown reason. The fire chief said that the whole mill was on fire before the alarm was turned in, because the burning gasoline spread rapidly.

The fire was fought by 35 men for six hours before the fire was extinguished.

4-Way, Full Scale Investigation On

By Gil Murray
Daily Record Reporter

ECHO LAKE — The Interstate Commerce Commission will be asked today to hold public hearings on the tragic explosion that claimed six lives and injured ten early Friday near Echo Lake.

Frank W. Doyle, acting district director of the Philadelphia office of the ICC, said, "This suggestion will be presented to the commission on Monday. If it is followed public hearings will be held with witnesses questioned.

Doyle said such an inquiry may "provide more specific answers to the cause of the explosion." He said there is a possibility the federal agency will approve the request.

Four Investigations

Other investigations are being carried out by the Monroe County district attorney, State Police and the Division of Mines, Quarries and Explosives of the State Dept. of Labor and Industry.

James R. Marsh, district attorney, said last night, "I have told state police that I want them to get their investigation material and get together with me. This could happen today or Tuesday.

Marsh said he also requested the ICC to supply him results of its investigation.

He also revealed there will be an inquest held to determine all the circumstances surrounding the death of three Marshalls Creek volunteer firemen killed in the blast that also claimed the lives of a passing motorist and truck driver and a 23-year-old youth trying to give assistance.

John C. F. Foelker, Monroe County Coroner, said last night the inquest will be held at a later date.

State Police Lt. Edward Switaj of Hazleton said, "Our investigation is not finished. We will speak to everyone we possibly can.

Joseph R. Ward Sr. of White Haven, a district investigator for the Dept. of Labor and Industry, said that department's probe will include, "Everything that will place the blame and the responsibility.

"There are lots of things that man (Albert Koda, driver of the trailer) told us that do not agree with reports we have seen in papers and heard from state police."

U.S. Rep. Fred B. Rooney was one of the first to call for an ICC inquiry. Soon after Friday's blast, Rooney requested the ICC to hold a full public hearing.

Mystery still surrounds what actually happened before and after the blast.

Doyle and two ICC field investigators spent the weekend at the scene measuring distance from various points. The two are Paul Kenworthy and Albert Roberts.

The ICC investigators scoured the area picking up pieces of the twisted remains of the ill-fated trailer and three Marshalls Creek fire trucks to determine their location at blast time.

Among other things the cause of the fire remains a mystery.

S. F. Spence, safety director for American Cyanamid in Wayne, N.J., the company that owned the trailer and the explosives, said:

"We haven't been able to tie some things together. It is difficult to believe a flat tire was the cause of the fire. We need more information before we will be able to determine the cause."

The first man on the scene after Koda left his truck was John J. Horvath Jr., 24, a Scranton truck driver blown to death.

He has been identified by Marshalls Creek firemen Richard McDonough and Carlyle Huffman as the man who turned in the fire alarm.

"Horvath said that he was up near Bushkill on Rt. 209 and there was a trailer ahead of him with its back wheels on fire," Huffman reported.

Disaster Fund Hits $31,272

STROUDSBURG — A total of $31,272 has been pledged to the Marshalls Creek Disaster Fund of Radio Station WVPO, Chet Miller, station manager, said Sunday.

The fund drive was started at 12:25 p.m. Friday after the blast occurred on fog-laden Rt. 209.

Miller yesterday announced the following committee has been appointed to distribute funds:

Fred W. Davis, president judge of Monroe County; Arlington Williams, Stroudsburg attorney; Jesse Pearson, general manager of Sears and Roebuck in Stroudsburg; Stuart F. Pipher, Monroe County Commissioner; Dr. LeRoy Koeher, president of East Stroudsburg State College; Joseph Lisicky, vice president of the First National Bank of Stroudsburg, and The Rev. Harold C. Eaton of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

"All members of the committee very graciously consented to serve and assured that all contributions and funds collected will be distributed judiciously by the committee. The committee members are individuals of the highest integrity," Miller said.

The disaster fund money will be distributed at a later date by the committee to needy blast victims. It may also help to replace Marshalls Creek Fire Co. equipment. "The committee is considering the probability of releasing fund money to victims who are in immediate and dire need of aid," Miller added.

$500 Contributors

Organizations which made contributions of $500 were:

Pocono Mountain Vacation Bureau; Wyckoff Sears of Stroudsburg; Paul L. Edinger of Stroudsburg; Western Heritage Properties Ltd.; Portland Volunteer Fire Co.; Shawnee Volunteer Fire Co., and the Four County Council of American Legion Auxiliary.

89 Electric Blasting Caps Carried On Explosion Truck

HAZELTON — State Police yesterday revealed that 89 electric blasting caps were loaded in the trailer carrying 15 tons of explosives which exploded Friday.

The blasting caps can be set off by heat and could have been the cause of the blast that killed six.

Stanley Komoshinsky, investigating State Police fire marshall at Hazelton, said Sunday he found two manifests or bills of lading stating the contents of the trailer's cargo.

Komoshinsky said one manifest, found in the cab, listed the trailer's contents as 26,000 pounds of nitro carbonitrate and 4,000 pounds of gellatin dynamite.

The other manifest, Komoshinsky said, was found in a pocket of Albert Koba, the driver, and listed the 89 electric blasting caps in addition to the nitro and dynamite.

The police did not explain why the revelation of the blasting caps and manifests was held up until Sunday, or why the manifests did not show the same cargo.

James R. Marsh, Monroe County district attorney, said last night, "I directed state police at the scene to notify Stroudsburg barracks to notify the barracks nearest the point of shipment to find records showing what was shipped."

Marsh also said he asked police to investigate any records at the trailer's destination in Fosterdale, N. Y., which might show what was being transported.

A spokesmen for American Cyanamid in Wayne, N. J., who was transporting the explosives, said yesterday the company informed police Friday that electric blasting caps were included in the cargo.

The presence of the electric blasting caps in the trailer raises the possibility that short wave, two-way radios used by firemen approaching the scene could have detonated the blast.

The company spokesman said, "With or without the caps the load would have gone off. It was the fire that set off the blast and any combination of things could have been the cause."

Unconfirmed reports last night indicated there are federal and state limits to the amount of dynamite that can be shipped with blasting caps.

Marshalls Creek Blast Victims Shake Off Shock, Vow To Rebuild

By Gil Murray
Daily Record Reporter

MARSHALLS CREEK — The deafening noise has subsided. The dust and fog have lifted. Most of the poisonous snakes are dead.

In Marshalls Creek the stunning action of Friday morning's explosion has been replaced by heartache and grief for fallen comrades.

Rising above the personal feelings of the blast victims and Marshalls Creek residents in general, however, is a dedication to rebuilding.

Families with homes blown apart want to start rebuilding immediately.

Members of the fire company talk of nothing but providing continued service, replacing smashed fire trucks and, above all, recruiting young men to take the place of the three dedicated firemen sent to their death in Friday's tragedy.

Ralph Miller, Marshalls Creek fire chief, said, "It will be tough to get men to replace Earl, Ed and Len. But we will do it. Do you know it takes about five years to train a fireman? These men were a team.

"We will try to get young men into the company. But young fellows in Marshalls Creek seem to move away or go into the Army after we get them trained."

Surveying the ruins of her devastated home Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Wilson MacIntire, who lives about 500 yards from the scene, said, "The house will have to be torn down and we will have to build. But we have nine children and we have to find a place big enough to hold us in the meantime.

"My family is being cared for now but I want them back together as soon as possible. Some of the children are still shaking over this thing."

Other homeowners in the blast area reflect Mrs. MacIntire's attitude. Up and won Rt. 209 on Saturday men were working on the damage that is expected to exceed $1 million.

Workmen were replacing broken windows, damaged sideboards, blown-off doors and lifted-roofs.

Surprisingly, amid the grief and tragedy of lost lives and homes, there prevails a feeling of thanksgiving. Thanksgiving that more people were not killed and other homes not damaged.

Mrs. MacIntire is thankful the six children at home at the time of the blast are safe and sound. She is more thankful, however, that three other children — away visiting at the time — were not home.

"Thank God they weren't here. They slept in a part of the house that was heavily damaged," the petite mother said.

Firemen are thankful also. Thankful that five or six other firefighters rushing to the scene were a few seconds too late to feel the full impact of 15-ton explosion.

Chief Miller said, "If I had been there two minutes earlier I would have gotten it. If it wasn't for a fire in Wooddale the night before five or six more men would have been killed. Thank God they were too tired to get up and dress quickly."

Bobby Huffman, a 24-year-old fireman, was one of these fortunate men.

"My mother always gets me up. I don't know why she didn't this time. Maybe it was because I was out fighting a fire in Wooddale the night before. This was the first fire I missed in a long time," said Huffman, who still appeared shocked Saturday afternoon.

Few people who visit the Marshalls Creek firehouse, a few hundred feet off Rt. 209, can help feeling thankful.

Across the street from the firehouse, standing in a field are three mute reminders of the tragedy.

Lined up in the field are what remains of the three fire trucks, which pulled up close to the trailer to fight the fire.

Saturday and Sunday thousands of persons filed by these mangled, twisted pieces of steel, which once served a proud fire company.

Filing by people gasped "Oh my God," "Those poor men," "What could cause such a thing." Others openly wept and walked over to a table manned by three members of the fire company auxiliary.

The women are collecting money to help replace fire trucks and to alleviate the suffering of the victims' stricken families.

The Marshalls Creek company is also thankful for the immediate support and help received from other fire companies in the county.

Charles Degen, assistant fire chief, said, "Every other fire company in Monroe County must be thanked. Every one of them offered us help. Help when we needed it most."

Standing in the firehouse are fire companies in Bushkill and Stroud Township.

two pieces of equipment from

The trucks, manned by volunteer firemen, are ready to respond to any fire covered by the Marshalls Creek Co. The company covers the largest parts of Smithfield, and Middle Smithfield Townships as well as part of Price Township.

Chief Degen said the company has received offers of aid from all over the country. "Everybody has been wonderful," he said.

131 On 1st Ballot

Scranton Drive Turns Up Few Dozen Delegate Votes

WASHINGTON (AP)—On the wall of the Scranton-for-President headquarters here there's a hand-lettered sign that reads: "Happiness is a warm delegate."

So far, the campaign efforts of Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsyvania have failed to turn up more than a few dozen warm delegates.

With the Republican presidential nominating convention beginning two weeks from Monday, the Associated Press survey of the 1,308 delegates shows Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona with 689 first-ballot votes compared with 131 for Scranton.

Goldwater's total—more than the 655 needed for the nomination if he holds on to them—includes 118 committed by state primary election laws, 257 instructed for Goldwater by state or district GOP conventions, 67 personally committed to the senator and 251 who say they favor him but are not necessarily pledged to him.

Scranton has picked up some 50 votes since announcing his candidacy, but they all came from delegates who previously were uncommitted or were backing some other candidate, such as Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, who threw his support behind Scranton.

So far, none has come from Goldwater backers. The senator has, to be sure, lost some first-ballot votes, notably from a decision by the Ohio delegation to back a favorite son on the first go-around. But these losses have been offset somewhat by gains in other states.

Scranton said last weekend that he expects some Goldwater delegates to start switching to him about the middle of this week. Asked where they will come from, officials at the Scranton headquarters here won't pinpoint them — but they say they are there.

Scranton takes his campaign this week to delegates from North Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, Illinois and Utah.

So far, Scranton's attempt to lure delegates away from Goldwater, thereby keeping him from a first-ballot victory, have borne little apparent fruit.

Harris Poll

GOP Rank And File, 62-38 Want Scranton Over Barry

By Louis Harris
National Pollster

If rank-and-file Republicans could vote their preferences at the GOP convention opening two weeks from today, Gov. William Scranton would be nominated over Sen. Barry Goldwater by a 62-38 percent margin.

In the first survey completed since Scranton announced his candidacy, it is apparent that the grass roots supporters of Henry Cabot Lodge, Nelson Rockefeller, Richard Nixon and George Romney have formed ranks behind the candidacy of the Pennsylvania governor.

However, neither Scranton nor Goldwater would come close to defeating President Lyndon Johnson if the election were held today. The results of a carefully drawn probability cross-section of American voters: Johnson 65 percent to Scranton 35 percent; or Johnson 74 percent to Goldwater 26 percent.

In separate interviewing ending June 19, registered Republicans only were asked:

"Suppose the Republican nomination came down to a choice between Senator Goldwater and Governor Scranton, whom would you be for between these two?"

All through the long spring of Republican decision, a singular mark of GOP opinion has been its volatility and lack of stability. No one candidate has ever emerged as the stand-out choice for the nomination.

The most consistent support has been that for Senator Goldwater. His backers are unwavering. However, he has never exceeded 30 percent first-choice support from Republicans nationally. Goldwater's support remains a solid minority of a minority political party. Furthermore, fully 30 percent of the Republicans surveyed say they could not bring themselves to vote for the Arizona senator if he is nominated. Although many of these people might well change their minds by November, the fact remains that a majority of Republicans find it impossible to prefer Barry Goldwater as their standard bearer.

The great irony of 1964 seems to be that the closer Goldwater gets to the nomination, the more certain Republican voters feel they would rather have someone else.

Yet the rank-and-file really has no better idea of which alternative to Goldwater they prefer than they did when the whole business began before New Hampshire.

Warsaw Roars Welcome To RFK

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Swelling crowds shouted, "Long live America" and, "Long live Kennedy" on Sunday as Robert F. Kennedy rode through Warsaw.

The visitig U.S. attorney general, his wife Ethel and two sons frequently stood or sat atop U.S. Ambassador John M. Cabot's limousine and waved when the throngs stopped the car. At times as many as a dozen Polish teen-agers were riding along too, on fenders and bumpers.

"I am not runnig for president but if I were, I wish you could all come to the United States to vote," Kennedy told a crowd in front of Warsaw University.

In market square, wild cheers followed his assertion that: "In the United States, Poles and Poland stand for courage. We are a lot like the people of Poland. The Polish people have a special position of affection and regard in the United States."

"We love America very much," an old woman shouted to Kennedy as he spoke while standing atop the car at the University.

Other Poles asked him to send their love to Jacqueline Kennedy, widow of the late president, and her children.

At Warsaw's tomb of the unknown soldier, where Kennedy laid a bouquet, a man shouted, "Long live President Johnson.'

Moved by the enthusiasm of the crowds, Kennedy prologed his visit until late Tuesday in order to be able to visit Poland's Roman Catholic spiritual center at Czestochowa, where he is expected to meet the primate of Poland, Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski.

Poland's official press and radio maintained silence on the Kennedy visit, but the word got around. Six thousand Poles packed the narrow streets and market square as Kennedy emerged from Mass at St. John's Cathedral.

Haverford Girl Crowned Miss Penna.

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (AP)—"This is the most thrilling moment of my life—and probably of my lifetime."

Thus spoke Marilyn Cutajar March, a 19-year-old beaming blonde from Haverford who was crowned Miss Pennsylvania of 1964 Saturday night.

Miss March—5 feet, 6 inches tall and lively, brown eyes—told an audience of about 1,200 that she was "thrilled beyond words" by her selection. She represented Delaware County.

Susan Dale Harman, 20, of Collegevile, Miss Montgomery County, was named first runner-up and also Miss Congeniality.

When it was announced that she was the winner, Miss March almost collapsed on stage and had to be steadied by the mistress of ceremonies, Maria Beale Fletcher, who was Miss America in 1962.

Foelker Criticizes Teeter Handling

STROUDSBURG — John C. F. Foelker, Monroe County Coroner charged Saturday that the death-by-burning of Claude W. Teeter was mishandled.

"Had this case been handled in the proper manner instead of being mishandled, the proper investigation would have automatically been taken care of," he said in a prepared statement after a coroner's inquest.

A coroner's jury found no negligence in Teeter's death.

"Teeter's smoking was the cause of his death. There was no negligence of any kind. We suggest stronger and better mechanics and communications at the hospital with the coroner," the six-man coroner's jury said Saturday after 13 minutes of deliberation.

"The law clearly states that all sudden, violent, and suspicious deaths fall under the investigation of the coroner. This should be handled by the attending physicians, funeral directors or any person knowing the facts," Foelker said.

"This case of Claude Teeter was never brought to the attention of the coroner. Therefore, it is my intention to conduct a full investigation of all the facts and circumstances and to issue an official verdict into the cause of this death. This is purely and simply the law. Section 1237, Article 12, under the act relating to counties of the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth class.

"I have written letters to all doctors, funeral directors, police departments, hotels, and motels throughout the county as soon as I had taken office," Foelker concluded.

The joint district attorney-coroner inquest with James R. Marsh, District Attorney, was decided on June 18.

"This is not the first time this has happened," Foelker added. There were the other cases within the last year. One concerned the death of a Bangor man who was accidentally burned. This was November 12, 1963.

The other involved a fall from a horse on August 29, 1963, he added.

Will Cooperate

Harry J. Smith of 608 Thomas St., Stroudsburg, who is the hospital superintendent said that the hospital would try to cooperate with the coroner. The hospital board has met and will work out a better plan for notifying the coroner. Foelker said last night he will meet with a member of the hospital staff.

Claude Teeter, 67 and blind, accidentally set himself on fire May 30 at Pleasant Valley Manor, while smoking a pipe. He died in the General Hospital of Monroe County Sunday, June 14, with third degree burns.

The incident, however, was not brought to light, or reported to the coroner until Mrs. Sherwood Teeter, Claude's sister-in-law, made a complaint over radio station WVPO, Wednesday, June 17.

Scranton Office Opens Again Today

STROUDSBURG — M. Stiles Baldwin, chairman of the Monroe County Scranton for President Committee, announced yesterday that the committee's office at 14 S. Seventh St. will reopen today at 11 a.m.

The office will have posters, stickers, bumper stickers, and literature about Governor William Scranton of Pennsylvania and will be manned continually from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. every day until the Republican convention is over.

The convention opens in San Francisco, Calif., July 13. Gov. Scranton is fighting an uphill batte to win the Republican nomination against Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

One Injured In Pocono Collision

POCONO TWP. — Miraculously, only one person was hospitalized as a result of a collision yesterday which completely demolished all three cars invoved, Trooper McManus of the Mt. Pocono state police substation said.

Admitted to Monroe County General Hospital with severely cut legs, internal injuries and several fractured ribs was Wilson C. Mustard, 53, of Phillipsburg, N.J. His wife, Margaret, 51, who suffered cuts and bruises, was treated and reeased.

McManus said a car driven by Allen A. Gross, 17, of Mt. Pocono was heading south on U.S. Rt. 611 when it went out of control, hit the shoulder on the right side of the road, then careend across the busy highway, jumped a barrier and smashed into Mustard's car, knocking it off the road.

Gross then spun around, McManus said, and crashed into a car operated by James Gaasche of Norristown, Pa. Gaasche's car, also went off the road. He and his two passengers, Arthur Musket, 69, and Edna Janes, 58, both of Norristown, were shaken but uninjured, McManus said.

Gross was treated for shock at Monroe County General Hospital and released.

NOTICE

To the families of the Marshalls Creek firemen and others who suffered in the explosion on Friday we extend our deepest sympathies.

To our friends, customers and to the public we would like to offer these suggestions which may prove helpful.

The explosion clause of the extended coverage portion of a fire insurance policy, and all Homeowners policies cover damage by the explosion.

Steps to be taken as soon as possible:

1. Make any temporary repairs immediately to prevent further damage by possible rainfall.
2. Obtain a written estimate of repairs from a contractor of your own choice.
3. Keep records of all extra expenses incurred to operate your household, if your home has been made untenantable. Homeowners policies will pay for these extra expenses.

Call your local insurance agent—he will be glad to discuss your loss and assist you. Our personnel will be more than glad to answer any questions regarding the catastrophe.

Full Investigation

The families of three volunteer firemen, three others killed in Friday's truck explosion, and every resident of this area must have clear, complete and honest explanation of why the disaster occurred and who was at fault.

A full investigation by authorities with proper jurisdiction is essential.

There are a number of conflicting stories from the truck driver, the gas station attendant who reported him to police, and firemen at the scene.

Were the truck tires hot or burning when the driver first left the truck?

Was the trailer, carrying 15 tons of explosives, properly marked according to state and federal law?

If so, why did the truck driver who reported the fire and the five firemen who arrived at the burning truck before it exploded not see any sign or indication that the truck was carrying explosives?

Were the two "Explosives" signs in the truck cab, which the driver drove away from the scene, extras or signs which should have been placed on the outside of the trailer?

Why did the driver leave his truck when his company says he should never have done so?

Why were there two manifests, one saying there were 80 electric blasting caps with the explosives and the other not mentioning any blasting caps?

Why did State Police not report Friday that the blasting caps were contained in the explosives trailer?

There are more unanswered questions. "There are still lots and lots of loose ends," as Monroe County District Attorney James R. Marsh put it.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has started a full investigation and may hold public hearings on the explosion. We urge them to do so and thank U. S. Rep. Fred B. Rooney for prodding the commission on this point.

The commission and Rooney have both suggested that this tragedy may point the way to new legislation needed to protect innocent people from the danger of transporting tons of explosives on public highways.

Everything must be done to prevent such a tragedy.

Full public disclosure of the facts of this incident are needed first. Then necessary corrective legislation or regulations should be considered.

They Volunteered Their Lives

The three Marshalls Creek firemen killed in the explosives truck blast Friday and the two who were critically injured were the first to arrive at the burning truck.

They were experienced volunteer firemen answering the call to duty with speed and efficiency which cost them their lives.

Two hundred or more of their fellow volunteer firefighters honored them Sunday in a long, impressive, and heart breaking funeral and burial ceremony.

The whole Pocono Mountain community owes them respect and honor for their sacrifice. It owes respect and honor to the many volunteer firemen who answer the same call to duty regularly with the same speed and efficiency.

The community takes them for granted and seldom thanks the hundreds of men who guard our homes and business properties, fields and woods.

This tragedy has already awakened the public to their silent, almost daily heroism. Let it not be forgotten after the last funeral hymn is sung.

The community has already poured out its heart and its pocket books in the surprising and heart warming response to the Marshalls Creek Disaster Fund of Radio Station WVPO now over $30,000.

It is a small thank you from the community to the families who lost husbands, brothers and friends when five swift and brave firemen volunteered their lives.

Walter Lippmann

Saigon Shake-Up

By Walter Lippmann

The big shake-up of our high command in Saigon is, of course, a recognition that the situation has deteriorated and that a change of policy, measures and of men is necessary. What does this means?

The newspaper reader is not in a position to answer this question himself, for the administration is not talking very much. It is not able to be entirely candid. For in this tense and dangerous situation all its words are acts, and the administration is having to consider their effect in Saigon, in Hanoi, in Peking, not to speak of Washington and San Francisco.

For what it may be worth, I would say that James Reston of the New York Times was quite right when he said on Wednesday that the shake-up does not indicate that a decision has been taken to carry the war to North Vietnam and to increase greatly United States participation in the fighting. My impression, which may, I admit, turn out to be wrong, is that a different decision has been taken.

Our original policy in South Vietnam, as laid down by Secretary Dulles under President Eisenhower and expanded by Gen. Maxwell Taylor under President Kennedy, rested fundamentally on the belief that the Saigon government under President Diem would be able, with American military and financial assistance, to subdue and pacify the Viet Cong rebellion. When this victory was won, the United States would withdraw and Southeast Asia would have been saved for the free world.

This well-meant, but remarkably naive policy broke down when the failure of Diem caused the United States to connive at the overthrow of President Diem and his family. Since then, there have been two successive governments, neither of which has had roots in the people of Vietnam, and the resistance to the rebellion has been kept going only by an increasing participation of Americans in the actual fighting. Recently it has become plain to everyone that the war was going to be lost, not won, under the original conception of Eisenhower and Dulles, Kennedy and Taylor.

Then there appeared two schools of thought about American policy and strategy.

One school has argued that the way to win the war is to carry it by bombing and blockade to North Vietman and if necessary into Red China. This theory rests on the belief that the Viet Cong rebellion in South Vietnam would subside if it were not supplied with fresh cadres of officers from the north and if it were not directed daily by the extensive military and political radio network. This school believes in handing some kind of ultimatum to Hanoi and, if Hanoi did not then cease and desist, in attacking North Vietman with sea and air power.

While this school has gain-adherents within the administration, it does not, not yet at least, speak for the administration. The real policy, I venture to think, is about like this: there is not and cannot be such a thing as a military vistory in the civil war, and an attack on North Vietman will not cause the Viet Cong rebels, who are predominantly South Vietnamese, to surrender to General Khanh. To attack North Vietnam would be, therefore, a quite incalculable risk — incalculable in what it would provoke.

The only tolerable outcome, therefore, is a settlement by negotiation in which China and the United States are the principals, with the Soviet Union, France, Great Britain and India participating as mediators and eventual guarantors. The critical word is "eventual." The real difficulty comes from the fact that we are not able now to bring about this kind of negotiation which would satisfy our own honor and serve the vital interests of all concerned.

Unless I have been grossley objective is to create a balance of forces which favors and supports a negotiated settlement in Southeast Asia. I do not think that our policy is as simple-minded as Secretary Dean Rusk occasionally chooses to make it seem—that he thinks that we can intimidate North Vietman into letting Laos and Souh Vietnam "alone". For even if Hanoi let them alone for 18 months, what would prevent Hanoi from not letting them alone in the future? Quite plainly, there must be a settlement of a complex of issues, not a mere promise to cease and desist.

To promote the eventual negotiation, it is essential, first of all, to prevent a collapse of the resistance in Saigon and to make it plain, as we have been doing recently, that it is not our intention to withdraw and wash our hands. It is no less essential to make military dispositions in the South Pacific and the Indian Ocean which make it clear that, when our troops withdraw from the mainland, the American presence will remain.

I believe, I hope I am still entitled to believe, that this is what is now going on — that General Taylor is going to Saigon to consolidate the resistance, with which he is so much identified, and that the movement of naval ships and transports and airplanes towards Southeast Asia is a deployment which, though it could be used for war, is intended to promote a treaty of peace.

The course of policy, which I have tried to sketch, is not guaranteed to succeed. But it is a rational policy that could succeed. And if the worst happens, if Peking is bent on a conquest and not on a settlement, our forces will be in position and on the alert.

Traffic Problem

The Pennsylvania Story

Legislators Get Tough

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — In the recently ended 1964 legislative session, Pennsylvanians had two perfect illustrations of how the all-powerful legislative branch can rise on its haunches and tell the executive branch to jump in the river—in spite of the fact that both may be dominated by the same political faith.

It doesn't happen too often, and of course with good reason—all of which makes the action of this year's gathering of the legislative brethren an event of something more than just passing interest.

The two incidents illustrate rather forcefully and with a touch of the dramatics, just how jut-chinned members of the elective branch can be in behalf of interests of the very people they were elected to represent—in spite of the Governor's Office.

Reason this sort of thing doesn't happen too often is that when the executive and legislative branches are both controlled by the same party dictates (namely those of the Governor) administration legislative leaders in the House and Senate usually "work with" or go along with their allied political partner in the front office. It's invariably this way whether it involves Democrats or Republicans.

The two upheavals in question revolved around: (1) a legislative investigation of the Philadelphia traffic ticket mess, which for years has witnessed thousands of upstate motorists nailed for Philadelphia traffic lines although not in the city on the date cited, and (2) the arbitrary increase and determined action on the part of the legislature in increasing the budget for Pennsylvania's 14 State Colleges by more than $2 million over what the Administration had stipulated.

Both measures cleared the House and Senate — and are now actual fact—notwithstanding the opposition of the Scranton Administration.

Significantly too, both moves represent solid victories for the upstate, "rural" non-big city legislative blocs and the people these blocs represent. Both proposals were opposed by the big city boys who: (a) in the Philadelphia traffic ticket case found the finger pointing squarely in their area, and (b) in the increase in funds for the State Colleges noted dourly that the 14 State Colleges in question were located in every instance in some upstate areas — not in their areas.

It will be recalled that in the case of the Philadelphia traffic ticket mess, individual lawmakers—to no avail—asked Attorney General Walter E. Alessandroni to investigate on the basis of complaints they were receiving from their constituents.

The pleas went unheeded—until appearance of a series of four articles by this column exposing the ticket mess in its ludicrous viciousness, which wound up calling for a legislative investigation. Therefore the Attorney General moved hastily and arranged a chit-chat with Philadelphia officialdom to "iron out" the difficulties. Nevertheless in the legislative hopper went the probe resolution. The last thing the Administration wanted was a legislative investigation — no Administration wants such things under way; they can be "awkward" and they can be "messy" for an Administration.

However notwithstanding the (valiant) efforts of the Administration to frantically and belatedly pacify irked lawmakers with the Alessandroni chit-chat and the physical revision of the Philadelphia traffic ticket to eliminate "error," the need for a real investigation as to the "whyfore" of the existence and tolerance of the racket (it can be called little else in good conscience) remained unchanged.

The House passed the probe measure in May, the Senate concurred June 16, directing the Joint State Government commission to investigate the Philadelphia traffic ticket mess!

"Correcting" the mess is to be expected — routinely—but why it wasn't corrected long ago and no action taken until exposed by this column is what lawmakers want to know!

George Dixon

Proposed Barry Cabinet

By George Dixon

WASHINGTON — If Maj. Gen. Barry Goldwater is as near the Republican Presidential nomination as his storm troops huzzah he is, it's a wonder he hasn't given some thought to becoming President. This is an oversight he should attend to pretty soon because he wouldn't look too well prepared if he moved into the White House without an idea in his head of whom he wanted for the top jobs in his Administration.

Inasmuch as Scranton, Lodge, Rockefeller, Romney, and Nixon seem indisposed at this time to shower him with helpful counsel, it is clearly up to the rest of us to give him the benefit of our positive thinking. To save him the embarrassment of having to solicit our advice, we volunteer these suggestions for an ideal Official Family:

First choice for Secretary of State would be another general, that natural diplomat and master of the noncommittal phrase, Dwight D. Eisenhower. Second choice would be Gov. George Wallace of Alabama. As they used to say in imputing genius to the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Wallace has an infinite capacity for taking planes.

The logical choice for Secretary of the Treasury is Robert G. Baker. He's had experience in financing. Bobby also might head up the desalinization program. He can sure take the salt out of it.

If Mr. Baker is too tied up, a logical second choice for the Treasury would be Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, who rose from the rich.

The Secretaryship of Defense should be snatched from civilian control. What better replacement than that doughty warrior, Col. Margaret Chase Smith? As her logical subordinate for Deputy Secretary, everything points to the sometime soldier she strove so conscientiously to demote, movie-dom's Brig. Gen. Jimmy Stewart.

Gen. Goldwater is a traditionalist, if nothing else. Tradition demands that a President have at least one top aide who is against everything he stands for, so he can regretfully accept the recalcitrant's resignation before it is offered. The Attorney Generalship absolutely belongs to still another military figure, Brig. Gen. (and N.Y. Senator) Kenneth B. Keating.

To still criticism that we are loading Gen. Goldwater with brass hats, we suggest that Jimmy Hoffa be appointed Deputy Attorney General, in charge of the fraud division.

There's only one man completely qualified for Postmaster General — former Vice President Richard Milhous Nixon. He's played post office with practically everybody.

You will note we are filling Cabinet posts in the order they are rated by protocol. Interior, which is sixth in rank, needs a Secretary who can also double as Commissioner of Fish and Wildlife. The plum should go to the first woman who attends a White House reception in one of those topless bathing suits.

To balance things, President Goldwater should either bring back that wild-eyed liberal, Ezra Taft Benson, for Secretary of Agriculture or divide the post among the Beverly Hillbillies.

'2nd Force'

'Second Force' of Civilians Being Sent to Saigon As 'Advisors' to Vietnamese Authorities.

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — The U. S. is vastly expanding its civilian forces operating in South Viet Nam.

In addition to the 15,000 U.S. military advisers helping the Vietnamese fight the Communist Viet Cong, a "second force" of between 2,000 and 3,000 civilians is being sent to that strife-torn country as part of our stepped-up counter-insurgency program.

The State Department is recruiting this new force from its Foreign Service, the Agency for International Development and other government agencies, including the Peace Corps; also universities and foundations.

Under a little-publicized White House directive, this civilian army is being assigned the mission of guiding South Viet Nam officials in the 'modernization" of their government and economy — from the strategic rural hamlets to the ruling junta in Saigon.

Operating under the direct supervision of Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson, deputy to General Maxwell Taylor, new U. S. Ambassador to South Viet Nam, the vanguard of these civilian forces already have begun taking over their counter-insurgency missions, including tasks originally assigned to U. S. military advisers.

The civilians are being assigned as "advisors" to Vietnamese authorities in hamlets and areas of South Viet Nam where control of the countryside has been seized from the Viet Cong and is being held by government forces.

While there has been no official announcement, one confidential State Department report detailing the "operating conditions" of these civilian forces reveals for the first time that they have suffered battle casualties.

Combat Conditions — Circulated by Secretary Rusk for the "personal information" of other agency heads, this report highlights the following unpublicized incidents involving U. S. civilians in the war in South Viet Nam:

"Earl Young, provincial representative for Long An Province, immediately adjacent to Saigon, reported that in visiting three strategic hamlets in his area of responsibility, his helicopter was fired on by Viet Cong each time it took off.

"Near this area, our first technician was killed in a Viet Cong ambush on a main road near Saigon which is frequently used by our personnel. Supposedly friendly local inhabitants in a nearby strategic hamlet turned hostile toward the survivors of the same party when they sought refuge there, but they escaped."

Stressing the constant danger under which these civilians live and operate, the report adds:

"Hatcher James in Dinh Tuong Province is so surrounded by Viet Cong that he generally has to accompany Vietnamese army combat operations in order to visit the hamlets for which he is particularly responsible.

"The provincial representative in An Xuyen Province operates in an area which is dominated almost completely day and night by the Viet Cong. He lives in the provincial capital of Canau, where last week the Viet Cong mortars were set up so close to the city that they blasted the screens off his office.

"Bob Burns, provincial representative in Phu Yen Province, and his assistants were on a trip to visit a strategic hamlet in two jeeps at the time they were ambushed by Viet Cong troops equipped with automatic weapons. Both vehicles were hit, but Burns and his assistants were able to escape."

Help Needed — According to other documents being circulated in the recruitment drive, hundreds of U. S. civilians are needed to conduct emergency training programs for Vietnamese who have the task of bringing effective government to the people of the villages.

Special courses for Viet Nam's district chiefs are an important first step in Premier Nguyen Khanah's "clear and hold" program to wipe out Communist guerrillas.

Strongly endorsed by Secretary of Defense McNamara and Secretary Rusk, this strategy calls for efficient administrators in the areas cleared of guerrillas by military action.

Dear Abby

Petty People

By Abigal Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our 12-year-old son took our power lawn mower to his aunt's house, which is near us. He told her that her lawn needed cutting and he would be glad to cut it. She asked how much he charged, and he said he wouldn't charge her anything. She told him to go ahead. (They have close to one acre.) Just as he was finishing, his uncle came home and asked our boy if he had been paid for the job yet. He said he wasn't charging anything. Then his uncle FORCED two dollars on our son. This evening, the wife called me and said she thought it was pretty cheap of our son to accept the two dollars for a job he agreed to do for nothing. Then she reminded me for the fiftieth time of all the clothes her son had outgrown and she had given me for our son. What do you make of this? How should it be handled?

BURNED UP

DEAR BURNED: Auntie is "pretty cheap." And should she again offer you hand-me downs, sugest that she make the Salvation Army or Good Will Industries the objects of her generosity.

DEAR ABBY: Years ago my father was also faced with the problem of having the neighbor's chickens wander into our yard. This is how he solved it: "He pierced tiny holes in dry corn kernels. Then, using a fine silk sewing thread, just long enough to reach the chicken's craw, he threaded each kernel of corn and attached a note to the other end of the thread. It read: "PLEASE KEEP ME HOME. I FEEL FOOLISH."

This didn't hurt the chickens, but they did look mighty silly walking around with those messages hanging from their beaks. The chickens never visited us again, and relations with our neighbors remained friendly.

L.S.H.

DEAR L.S.H.: And therein lies a moral: Never underestimate the power of corn.

DEAR ABBY: Back in 1905 my mother thought up a good way to keep the neighbor's chickens out of our yard. She soaked bread crusts in Dad's corn liquor (much to his displeasure) and she scattered these crusts around our yard, where the chickens visited daily. The chickens came over as usual, ate their fill and promptly passed out just like humans all over our yard. My mother went out, picked them up and threw them back into their owners' yard. When the neighbors saw their chickens lying there like dead, they got the hint. No more chickens for mother. It was much cheaper than calling a lawyer, too.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Mouth-to-Mouth Resuscitation

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Mouth-to - mouth rescuscitation is one of the most vital life-saving techniques.

Anyone can learn the technique. Young Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts have saved lives and prevented impending calamity by the use of this method.

The basic principle of this form of artificial respiration is simple. Mouth-to - mouth resuscitation forces the rescuer's breath and oxygen into the victim's lungs.

It is very easy to perform:

1) Place the victim on his back, face up.

2) Loosen ties, belts, or any other constrictions.

Clear Victim's Mouth

3) Make sure that the victim's mouth is empty and that the tongue has not fallen back in the throat.

4) Tilt the victim's head back as far as possible and pull the jaw upward.

5) Open the mouth. If the jaws are rigid and the mouth is dificult to open, separate the lips. The rescuer's air can go between the teeth.

6) Take a deep breath. Place your mouth securely over the victim's mouth and forcefully blow your life-saving breath into him. Take another deep breath and repeat the cycle.

Pinch Nostrils

7) Be sure that there is no leakage of air through the victim's nose. For an adult, pinch the nostrils together. For a child, cover both the nose and the mouth with your own mouth.

8) Blow rhythmically and regularly at about a normal breathing rate. For an adult, blow about 12 to 18 times a minute. For a small child, blow more gently and more quickly — about 20 times a minute. Remain as relaxed as possible and continue this procedure unburriedly. The rescuer himself can become dizzy by too rapid overbreathing. Whenever possible, avoid exhaustion by getting another person to take over.

Don't Get Discouraged

9) Do not stop or become discouraged if the victim does not respond quickly.

10) Send for professional help. If possible, this should be done even before beginning the procedure. But if help cannot be quickly and easily summoned, do not leave the victim in order to look for it.

11) Before touching the victim of electric shock unconsciousness, be certain that he is not in contact with any live wires. If he is, remove the wires first with a rubber or wooden implement.

If you feel uncomfortable about direct mouth-to - mouth contact, cover the victim's mouth with a hankerchief.

Send For Help

Remember the most important points. Don't delay. Send for help. Tilt head for backward. Lift jaw upward. Begin mouth-to - mouth resuscitation immediately.

Learn this simple emergency procedure and teach it to your family. There is no greater joy than saving a life.

Stories Behind Words

Money

The Romans looked upon Juno as the queen of the goddesses because she was the wife of Jupiter, the Romans' chief god.

Juno was the special dicty of women, and of marriage. She also was known as the goddess of good counsel and, in this capacity was referred to as Juno Moneta, "moneta", being derived from the Latin verb "monere" — to advise.

The mint where the Romans made coins was located in the temple or shrine of Juno Moneta. The coins thus acquired the name "moneta."

The word passed into Old French as "monele" and into Middle English as "moneye." The final "e" was dropped, resulting in the present-day word "mony."

Insurance Claims Filed So Far Reach $600,000

STROUDSBURG — Approximately 60 insurance claims totaling $600,000 resulting from Friday's truck blast have already been filed with area insurance companies—and the companies say there are more coming.

A rundown on the companies reporting claims and approximate amounts are as follows:

E. A. Bell Insurance: 10 to 12 claims totaling "somewhat less than $40,000," according to representative Jack Mullins.

Crowe Insurance Company: 15 claims totaling about "400,000 if the Middle Smithfield Elementary School is a total loss," according to Walter McClelland, representative.

Coleman Insurance: between 20 and 25 claims "to run around $100,000, with the major claim an undisclosed amount on the Regina Hotel," according to Ernest Ridgeway, representative.

G. Willard Stettler Insurance: "about 15 claims. I have no idea of the total amount, though most are broken doors, windows, etc.," according to Willard Stettler.

Mullins said that "I'm positive the insurance carriers will promptly pay the insurance, then they will investigate the possibilities of subrogation."

Subrogation is the suing of the body held liable for the damage to recover the money.

"It looks to me like the liability lies with American Cyanimid," Mullins said. American Cyanimid is the company which owned the nitro-carbonitrate and dynamite which leveled a large area Friday and killed six.

"They (Cyanimid) are the proximate cause of the damage, the same as if you hit something with your car.

"I think that American Cyanimid will probably carry a high amount of insurance on their explosive trucks—though that is speculation.

"This is what will probably happen in most cases: the homeowner with insurance will hire a contractor to go over the house and give us a value or extent of damages.

"The homeowner will be paid up to the limits of his policy if there is that much damage. The insurance company will then sue American Cyanimid for that amount of money.

"Another way in which it can be handled is for the homeowner to directly sue the liable company. The homeowner might do this if the extent of damages to his home is more than the amount of the insurance policy.

"He could possibly collect the full amount.

"A third way I will investigate —I don't know if its possible yet —is the payment of a claim and joint subrogation by homeowner and insurance company," he said.

Fate Of Grammar School Hinges On Today's Study

EAST STROUDSBURG — Representatives of Walker and Eby, an Allentown construction firm, will join Allentown architect Lee Everett today in trying to determine whether to restore or tear down and rebuild the Middle Smithfield Elementary school.

The school was severely damaged in Friday morning's fatal truck explosion on Rt. 209 near Echo Lake.

"The insurance people have gone through it," said Carl Secor, supervising principal of the East Stroudsburg Jointure, "and they'll be back Monday to study it with the contractor and architect."

The insurance on the building is handled by the Crowe Insurance Agency of East Stroudsburg. Walter McClelland, Crowe representative, said that the school was insured for $286,000. He also termed the school a "Total loss."

Secor said that it is not known at this time whether the building is so badly damaged structurally that it will have to be torn down. He said that the survey today would decide that question.

He added that the original part of the building was erected in 1936 — and that he has no idea of the cost at that time. "The records are up in Middle Smithfield," he said.

He said that an addition, completed in 1960 at the same time the new East Stroudsburg Joint Junior-Senior high school was finished, cost in the 'neighborhood of $165,000 to $175,000."

"After the contractors and insurance people make their decision as to tear it down or rebuild it, the president of the joint school authority will call a meeting and we'll decide where to go from there," Secor said.

He added that if the building is not ready for occupancy by the beginning of the fall term of school, half-day classes might be a possibility.

"It might be ready by then — we just don't know," he said.

Lee Everett, the architect on the addition, viewed the school Friday after the blast.

'It moved over and came back," Everett said. He said damage to the building could be anywhere from $100,000 to $300,000.

Structurally, some of the walls were damaged badly and the rafters were split. This means that the top portion of the building is not securely supported at the present time.

"It must have been a violent explosion," the architect said. "That building is really put together."

The school housed about 190 youngsters in kindergarten and the first six grades. The building consists of a library, four regular classrooms, a kindergarten, a large all-purpose room, a health room and teacher's room.

At the time the blast killed six people a half-mile away, no one was in the building.

Freed In Explosion

All Snakes, Monkey Now Accounted For

EAST STROUDSBURG — All the snakes loosed in Friday's truck blast — and a wandering monkey — have been accounted for, according to area game protector John Doebling.

Doebling said yesterday that workers had combed the area around the Echo Lake blast site on Saturday, and had accounted for a total of 104 snakes.

The monkey was seen at the Blue Ridge Resort Motel at Echo Lake and captured Sunday at 4:30 p.m.

"Livingston's (Harold Livingston, owner of the Pocono Reptile Farm from which the snakes fled or were killed) estimate of his snake population was too high," Doebling said.

Livingston had said after the blast that he had from 175 to 200 snakes, "but who counts them?" Doebling said that he carefully scrutinized Livingston's snake permit and estimated the number of snakes at 100.

"As of now, we have accounted for 104 snakes — all of Livingston's and maybe a few more that were living in the swampy area there," the game protector said. About 15 snakes were caught Saturday — mostly timber rattlers according to Doebling.

"Most of the snakes we caught Friday were dumped into the blast crater and buried. The ones we caught yesterday were killed with rifles or snake sticks and buried.

"We buried the snakes so that no one could fool around with them and possibly get venom in a cut," Doebling said.

"The search — as it now stands — is closed," he added.

After the blast, one monkey was unaccounted for. He turned up yesterday afternoon at 4:30 in the backyard of the Blue Ridge Resort Motel at Echo Lake, about three-quarters of a mile from the blast site.

Vincent Vecchio, owner of the resort, said "I saw him standing in the backyard. I brought him a banana, two oranges, a glass of milk and some water.

"He was starving — you should have seen him eat.

"He's the size of a big dog and dark brown. He'll drink out of a glass for you," Vecchio said.

Livingston said last night that the monkey was turned over to the local chapter of the SPCA. Vecchio said that he might want to keep the monkey, but "he wasn't as tame as Vecchio thought he was," Livingston said.

The reptile farm owner said he would try to collect damages from American Cyanamid for his farm, which was without insurance. He said he thought he might start another reptile farm and settle in Monroe County, but "I don't know right now just what I want to do."

Cyclist Hurt In Crash

EAST STROUDSBURG — A 41-year-old motorcycle rider was injured on Rt. 209 at the East Stroudsburg borough line when his cycle collided with the rear of a car Saturday at 7:40 p.m.

Burton C. Hilliard of East Stroudsburg, RD 2 was treated at the General Hospital of Monroe County for cuts of the left leg and elbow, according to East Stroudsburg police.

Arthur T. Rall, 47, of East Stroudsburg, RD 1, was identified as the driver of the vehicle by police. Passengers in his car were his 38-year-old wife Joan and Santo Daleo, 61 and his wife Jessie, 59, of Queens, New York.

Rall reported to police Sunday morning he had hurt his back, left jaw and right hand. Mrs. Rall said she hurt her neck, back and head and Daleo said he injured his shoulder, back and neck and that his wife Jessie injured her forehead, back of head and neck, police said.

All were examined at the General Hospital of Monroe County and released.

H. R. Smeltz Heads Legion District

EAST STROUDSBURG — Herman R. Smeltz of East Stroudsburg Saturday was elected commander of Pennsylvania's 30th District at its convention in the George N. Kemp Post 346 American Legion, East Stroudsburg.

Before being elected to the post Smeltz was a deputy district commander. He is a past commander of George N. Kemp Post.

Smeltz will start his term Sept. 1 and continue through 1966. He succeeds Donald W. W. McPherson of Hellertown.

In other convention business the 100 delegates representing American Legion posts in Monroe, Carbon and Northampton Counties elected delegates to the national convention and various state convention committees.

The national convention will be held in Dallas, Tex.

Elected as delegates were Smeltz and Elmer Heffer, Monroe County; Jack Derby and George Thomas, Carbon County, and Ruben Davidson, Donald McPherson, Willard Degraves and David Hughes, Northampton County.

Named to a convention committee from the local post was Olin Haggerty, a past commander of the post.

After a parade through the two boroughs Saturday night a dinner-dance was held in the post home in East Stroudsburg.

Fire Destroys 2-Car Shed

SAYLORSBURG — Fire of undetermined origin yesterday at 7:10 p.m. completely destroyed a two-car shed on the property of Andrew Ryder in Bossardsville.

The fire was discovered by a passerby who sent in the alarm to the Blue Ridge Hook and Ladder Fire Co. in Saylorsburg.

George Kitchen, fire chief, said, the shed was completely in flames when firemen arrived and there was nothing they could do to save it so we set up our lines to save another building nearby. The shed was empty.

Rooney Tours Blast Area, Shocked By Site, Families

ECHO LAKE — U. S. Rep. Fred B. Rooney toured the truck explosion scene Saturday in a state of shock and disbelief.

These are the words that Rooney used again and again on Saturday afternoon as he visited families who lost relatives in the Black Friday blast or had homes severely damaged.

Rooney was deeply shocked with what he saw from the time he visited the Marshalls Creek firehouse until two hours later when he ended his trip talking to survivors in the General Hospital.

Every time he visited the family of a blast victim, Rooney would return to his car looking distraught, nervous, upset and a little sick.

Clutching Watch

When he left the home of Leonard Mosier, he said, "Did you see that woman lying on the couch clutching her dead husband's watch?" Mosier was one of three firemen killed in the blast.

He went walking through the wrecked home of Wilson MacIntire shaking his head. He was wondering how the eight people in the house escaped injury when it was demolished.

The Congressman was especially upset when he visited Theodore Regina—a close political ally—who lost his 23-year-old son in the nightmare blast.

He clutched Ted Regina's hand for a full two minutes searching for a word of condolence.

You could see Rooney stutter when Regina said, "I don't feel bad but that doesn't bring my son back." His son John was killed in the blast.

Regina told Rooney how he had been up at 4 a.m. shaving before he went to work as substitute mail carrier in East Stroudsburg when the fire started.

"Johnny came in to the bathroom and said he was going down to see if he could help. I said go ahead," said Regina, who owned a hotel demolished by the blast.

Democratic County Commissioner Stuart Pipher briefed Rooney on each of the families and persons visited.

The trip took Rooney to the firehouse, blast scene, Middle Smithfield School, the MacIntire home, the homes of the three dead and two injured firemen, a visit with Regina and the hospital to see injured firemen Richard McDonough and Robert Heid.

At the blast site Rooney corraled investigators from the Interstate Commerce Commission and told them he would be vitally concerned with their findings.

"Interstate commerce is my committee and I will stay right on top of this," he told the investigators.

At the hospital Rooney saw the visible physical effects of the blast when he visited the rooms of Robert Heid, Richard McDonough, Mrs. Marion Sherman and Mrs. Ruth Livingston.

"I would rather spend three hours in hell than have to go through that again," Rooney said when he ended the trip.

U. S. Urged To Pay For Flood Project

PHILADELPHIA — The District Engineer, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in Philadelphia has recommended the federal government to reimburse Pennsylvania $1,788,000 for the construction of the flood project in the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg area.

His recommendation for reimbursement was made since the project as constructed is the same as would have been recommended for a Federal undertaking under normal procedures.

The engineer noted in his report to Brig. Gen. John C. Dalrymple, division engineer in New York City.

"The report presents a project constructed by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and one which formulated under the Corps of Engineer's procedures would be favorable toward federal improvement.

"Because of concern over the continued volunerability of flood damage in the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg area, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania elected not to wait for the normal federal authorization and funding process and undertook the design and construction of this project with State funds, with the intent to request future federal reimbursement. . ."

The project was completed in October 1962.

Some species of night-blooming flowers are especially adapted to attract and feed bats, thus assuring pollination. The long-nosed bats of Arizona favor blooms of the giant saguaro cactus.

CD Men Busy Moving Spectators

ECHO LAKE — State and local police and volunteer Civil Defense workers have been waving traffic through the site of explosion since early Friday morning.

Traffic has been moving through the area slowly but steadily since the highway was reopened to traffic Friday night.

Police will not allow vehicles to stop, but human nature being what it is, the drivers of cars slow down so they can see of show others in the car where the snake farm was, or the trucks were, or tell the passengers where the crater was.

One unidentified CD volunteer said, "We do the best we can to keep traffic moving through the blast scene and the way these people drive its a wonder we haven't had a couple of accidents."

Cars, small trucks and station wagons loaded with children, members of the family or next door neighbors have been doing their best to "look and see" where six people were killed and at property damaged by the explosion.

During peak traffic periods cars are bumper to bumper for more than a mile from the scene.

Parents can be heard telling children in the cars, "Don't stick your hand out the wondow. Do you want it hit by a snake?" or "Charles look over there, that is where the fire trucks were."

In Marshalls Creek traffic was also moving slowly. Many cars turned up Rt. 402 to the Marshalls Creek Firehouse, find a spot to park the family vehicle and then walk back to view the blast destroyed fire trucks of the volunteer fire company.

McDonough Says Horvath Called Firemen To Scene

EAST STROUDSBURG — A truck driver from Scranton, who was blown to bits in Friday's Echo Lake holocaust, has been identified as the man who summoned Marshalls Creek firemen and who acted heroically in the face of disaster.

From a hospital bed in the General Hospital of Monroe County, Richard McDonough identified John J. Horvath Jr., a passing truck driver, as the man who called firemen to the scene.

"He called and said a trailer was burning and the driver wasn't around. He said he would back his trailer around and shine his lights on the fire," McDonough said.

The injured fireman, who underwent a four-hour operation after he was hit by the blast, said he thought Horvath used a public telephone near the Regina Hotel to call firemen.

In a short interview with The Daily Record, McDonough said the dynamite-laden trailer was burning when firemen arrived at the scene.

McDonough, who is the assistant chief of the Marshalls Creek Fire Co., is apparently still suffering from the noise created by the blast.

When talking to him it is necessary to talk loudly because he has a hard time hearing.

McDonough was one of the five firemen who were at the scene when the trailer exploded with an atomic-like force.

Three of the firemen died. The other, Robert Heid, is in the hospital with his leg in a cast and suffering from shock.

When asked questions Heid had difficulty piecing together an answer. He is forced to lay on his stomach with his leg suspended in the air.

The bodies of both men were pierced by scraps of metal from the exploding trucks, as if they had been hit by a wartime burst of shrapnel, sources close to their families report.

During the four-hour operation Heid underwent on Friday morning, doctors had to remove part of the muscle in his left calf in addition to the numerous pieces of metal, reports said. Heid also reportedly suffered a compound fracture of the left arm. He was, however, able to eat a little yesterday, it is said.

McDonough was reported to have undergone much the same ordeal to remove metal, and is said to still be receiving blood transfusions and intraveneous feeding.

Both families, it is reported, credit the war-time experience of Dr. Evan C. Reese in treating shrapnel cases with saving the lives of the injured firemen.

Hospital Conditions

Monroe County General Hospital said last night that Heid's condition remains serious. McDonough is still listed as in satisfactory condition, while Mrs. Ruth Livingston and Mrs. Marion Sherman, the two other hospitalized victims of the blast, are in fair condition.

Witness Says Truckdriver Was Aware Of Hot Tires When He Left Trailer

By Jim Ottaway Jr.
Daily Record Editor

EAST STROUDSBURG— The star witness in Friday's tragic dynamite truck explosion says Albert Koda, the truck driver, knew his two rear flat tires were hot when he unhooked his cab and left the trailer with 30,000 pounds of explosives.

Gerald Case, 20-year-old night attendant at Rehm's Texaco Service Station at the N. Courtland St.-Franklin Hill Rd. blinker intersection, told The Daily Record early Saturday morning that Koda smelled of burned rubber and said, "Those tires got hot, didn't they?"

"He looked a little shook up. You could smell the burned rubber from his clothes. He had marks from burned rubber on his hands," Case reported.

Acted Strange

"He said it smelled in the cab too. He acted kind of funny at first and said, 'I've run into some trouble. I told them to get new tires on the trailer. The truck trailer had all good tires except those two. He didn't say at first what he was hauling."

Lt. Edward Switaj, commander of State Police Troop A 3 in Hazelton, said Sunday Koda told the state police that he knew one of the flat tires "was warm."

Lt. Switaj said Koda described the degree of warmth as hot as a tire would get from normal road running on a summer day.

Koda's statement to State Police and Case's statement raise several questions about Koda's actions Friday.

Why did he leave his trailer alone?

Where his flat tries smoldering or burning when he left the explosives trailer?

Why did he return to the scene and leave a second time without identifying himself clearly to police?

Koda drove to the East Stroudsburg station to call a company salesman telling him he would be delayed after his two right rear tires blew out on Rt. 209 and he pulled off the road in front of the Pocono Reptile Farm—blown to bits about an hour later.

Question Raised

Case's testimony, given to Stroudsburg State Police during two hours of questioning Friday afternoon and to The Daily Record early Saturday morning, confirms Koda's story at many points, but raises a major question of whether the truck driver knew his flat tires were dangerously overheated when he left the explosives trailer.

Koda was an experienced truck driver, with 25 years on the road. He told State Police his truck tires were not burning when he left the scene, but the gas station attendant says Koda knew they were hot.

This part of both the Koda and the Case stories fits together.

Koda told State Police he drove on for about half a mile after his tires blew out, looking for a place to pull off the road. Running on the flat tires would normally overheat them.

Would an experienced truck driver assume heated flat tires could ignite, starting a fire?

Koda has not spoken on this point, but a similar incident on the Delaware Water Gap bridge later Friday shows it can easily happen.

By strange coincidence, a tractor-trailer, loaded with 40,000 pounds of steel, caught fire on the bridge at midnight Friday from friction caused by flat rear tires.

Koda's Strange Story

After a day of questioning Koda, Stroudsburg State Police said this was his story:

At about 3:15 a.m. Friday he heard his two right rear tires blow out, continued for about a half a mile looking for a place to pull off Rt. 209, and parked in the large space in front of the Pocono Reptile Farm.

He then unhooked his tractor and went to sleep for half an hour. Koda changed an earlier statement to The Daily Record on this point. He had said before the State Police statement that he unhooked his tractor, stayed for about half an hour and tried to flag down two passing trucks which did not stop.

He later said at his home in Port Carbon, Pa., that these versions did not conflict because he was resting in his cab while waiting to flag down a passerby.

The State Police statement on Koda's story then said the driver went to the Texaco gas station in East Stroudsburg. He would have left his trailer at about 3:45 to 3:50 a.m. and arrived at the gas station in about ten minutes.

This fits the gas station attendant's report that Koda first arrived at about 4 a.m.

The State Police said Koda then called an American Cyanamid Co. salesman in Easton to report his trouble and tell him he would not make his destination—Fosterdale, N. Y.—on schedule at 7:30 a.m.

Makes Other Call

Case, the station attendant in the office when Koda first used the telephone, confirms this call. Case said he made one other call and received one call back.

Koda told State Police he did not see any signs of fire when he left to find a telephone. He also said he did not turn in the fire alarm which brought three firemen to their deaths.

Case confirms that Koda did not call any firemen or report fires to me," Case said. "I'm certain he didn't call any fire companies."

Richard McDonough, assistant Marshalls Creek fire chief who is still in the General Hospital of Monroe County, confirmed this also in a bedside interview Saturday. So did Carlyle Huffman, treasurer of the fire company.

This and the statement of William Paesch, who was the first driver to stop when he saw the burning truck and fire trucks, show that if Koda left his trailer before it started burning, it must have ignited in a ten-minute period from about 3:45 a.m. when he left to about 3:55 a.m. when the now dead Joseph Horvath, Scranton, saw the fire, went to a phone and turned in the alarm at 4 a.m.

Koda told State Police he was at the gas station when he heard the blast and started back to his trailer.

Case confirms this.

The gas station attendant said in a Saturday morning interview that Koda said he was going to lie down for a while after he made his first telephone calls. "He said to wake him up at about 5:30," Case recalled.

Sounds Like Bomb

"As he was going to the cab, we heard the explosion. It sounded like a bomb.

" 'What in the heck was that,' Koda said. 'I don't know,' I answered. Then he took off. He probably figured that's what it was, but he didn't say anything about it," Case said.

Koda then told State Police he was caught in a traffic jam as he travelled back to the explosion site, so he got out of his cab and walked to the scene.

He told police he got close enough to see his burning trailer—it was completely demolished by then—a wrecked fire engine and a dead body.

At this point, he told State Police, he started to feel sick, went back to his tractor cab and returned to the service station.

Case said Koda was gone about an hour to an hour and a half when he returned (at about 5:30).

Case said he then called "his boss" and reported his truck had blown up and some people were hurt.

Case quoted Koda as saying, "That was my truck that exploded."

"Then he said he had dynamite and explosives. I asked him if anybody got hurt and he said he saw a few firemen lying by the truck. He said the traffic was bad so he walked down the road towards his trailer about a half a mile," Case continued.

"He said he went down there and everybody was asking who was driving the trailer. He said he told one of the city cops that he was driving the truck and was coming back here (to the gas station). Then he said, 'I don't know if he heard me or not,' " Case reported.

This statement by Case was the first indication that Koda made an attempt to report himself to police as the driver of the truck. Case said Koda never called police from the gas station to report himself.

Scared Truckdriver

"He was scared when he came back. 'Quite a few people got hurt over there,' he said.

"Then he asked me where there was a diner open and I told him down the road. When he left, I called the police (the Stroudsburg- East Stroudsburg Control Center).

"When he came back I was still talking to the cop, so while he was outside I told the cop not to say that I had called him up and I said to the driver, 'Hey, the cop wants to talk to you.'"

"Then the cop drove to the station and picked him up and they left the cab here," Case concluded.

Case said he went off duty about 1 p.m. and the State Police took him in for questioning about 3 to 5 p.m.

"They questioned me about the driver and what he said and did. They tape recorded my answers. They were talking mostly about the hot tires."

Case has been working at Rehm's gas station for about two weeks. He is married and is living with his wife of eight months at 203 Washington St., East Stroudsburg in a rented apartment. He is from Lake Ariel.

General Hospital Emergency Handled Quickly, Calmly

EAST STROUDSBURG — There was no confusion at Monroe County General Hospital Friday morning as victims of the truck blast began coming into the emergency room, Harry J. Smith, superintendent, said.

When Daily Record reporters arrived at the hospital, it appeared much as it does on any other day. Nurses went quietly and quickly about their duties, there were several people sitting in the waiting rooms.

The only two signs of unusual activity were the swarms of reporters all over the reception area, and the incessant hum of the switchboard. A line of newsmen stood waiting to use the hospital's one pay phone, each calling in his story.

Smith spent a good part of his time talking to reporters, a group at a time, listing the victims names, ages and condition, until he had no need to refer to his notes.

William Paesch, whose wife, Lillian, had died in the blast, sat unobserved in a waiting room, obviously still uncomprehending.

He was hustled from the hospital when one over-eager New York newsman harassed him.

The wife of injured fireman, Richard McDonough, sat under the hospital arch, smoking cigarette after cigarette, vainly trying to hide her grief and worry. She comprehended too well.

"Please," she told newsmen, "I can't say anything now. I'm sorry."

Dr. Roger Maurer was on duty as "sleep-in" physician, Smith said, and took action as soon as he was aware of the disaster. Maurer called the surgical staff and alerted the ambulance crew.

Drs. L. W. Hunsicker, Morton Spinner and Frank Dracos responded immediately, as did Smith. The first injured began arriving between 4:30 and 4:45 a.m., Smith said.

To supplement the night crew of "three or four" nurses, the same number of operating room nurses were called in. In addition, four or five male attendants, three laboratory technicians and several x-ray operators arrived, Smith said.

He added that several day workers came in early without being called. Smith said that all of the victims who were released had been treated by 7 a.m.

Smith concluded, "Everything ran very smoothly. I'm very proud of the outfit. They did a splendid job."

Utilities Repair Damage Quickly

STROUDSBURG — Telephone and electric service to the Martins Creek area was interrupted for only a short time, by Friday's explosion according to utility representatives.

Metropolitan Edison district engineer Robert Nagel said the blast knocked down several electric poles, and "lifted one right out of the ground."

Nagel said that by switching power in from the north and south, the company bypassed the broken cable and rapidly restored service. All three repair crews were called out, and permanent repairs were expected by yesterday afternoon, he said.

A spokesman for the Bell Telephone Co. said that about 25 lines, 85 phones and several toll circuits were knocked out of service. Approximately 18 men began working at 4:30 a.m. yesterday, and had service completely restored with a temporary cable by noon. Repairs were expected to be completed last night.

Truck Catches Fire From Flat Tires

DELAWARE WATER GAP —Slight damage was reported to a tractor-trailer, loaded with 40,000 pounds of steel, which caught fire Saturday at the New Jersey end of the Delaware Water Gap Bridge.

Chief James Anthony of the Delaware Water Gap Fire Department said the fire started from friction caused by flat tires on the right dual wheels of the trailer.

Anthony said damage was confined to the rear tires and the wooden body of the trailer. Firemen doused the blaze, using booster streams, in about 15 minutes. They were called to the scene at 12:20 a.m.

Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission police identified the driver as Howard Rosencrank of Binghamton, N. Y. He was not hurt.

The tractor was owned by Easton Freight Ways of Carlstadt, N. J. The trailer owner wat not identified.

here's truth about hormones for face, neck and hands

NEW YORK (Special) :—Reams have been written about hormones. Will they make women of 75 look 16 again? Absolutely not. Will they make women of 60 feel like they were 20 again?

To know the truth about hormones you need to learn just two simple facts: (1) The beauty of a woman's skin starts breaking down as signs of age begin, because the female organs fail to supply enough estrogenic hormones to feed the skin—less and less as you grow older. (2) Estrogenic hormones can be supplied to the skin by rubbing on a penetrating formula containing the hormones.

Here is a test reported in a scientific journal, one of many that showed similarly sensational results: Twenty-five women applied hormones to one side of the face and neck, and to one hand. On the other side and the other hand, a similar preparation containing no hormones was applied the same way.

These are the reports in simple words:

Skin lines (or dry-skin wrinkles) quickly dimmed or disappeared from sight as creases and hollows filled out.

Blotches and "old-age freckles" faded on hands, face and neck.

Skin was softer, clearer, seemed to lose its chronic dryness and take on a revived freshness and vitality.

All these amazing things happened on the side where the hormones were used. Meanwhile no comparable changes occurred on the other side. The same withered, lifeless complexion.

Now to select a good estrogenic hormone preparation, here is what you need to know: the strength of the hormone preparation must appear on the label! The recommended monthly allotment for the skin is 20,000 International Units.

The base should be as rich as possible in penetrating Sesame Oil and moisturizing Lanolin and when "rubbed in" your skin should not feel greasy or sticky. On first application, your skin should feel a radiant glow of revitalized youthfulness and refreshment.

An extra good buy in hormone products today is a preparation called HORMONEX Beauty Serum. It is made by a trustworthy 50-year-old laboratory.

It is inexpensive to use. A 100-day supply costs only $3.50. Look younger quickly. See these dry-skin wrinkles smooth out, starting today! You may obtain Hormonex Beauty Serum at:

"Where do you get your rebozos?"
"The same place I get my cement!"

Many years ago, rebozos (colorful hand-woven shawls) were a major export of Mexico. Today, Mexican exporters are more apt to be offering cement.

Like other nations, Mexico became industrialized, and more technically accomplished. Now, Mexico exports more than 1000 manufactured articles ranging from ball bearings and seamless steel tubing to sewing machines, office furniture, condensers and electric toasters.

Half of the imports of our number one Latin American customer are machinery, equipment and supplies to keep production booming.

The tradition of quality synonymous with rebozos is kept alive in today's products. You can still get rebozos—the same place you get your cement.

Knowledge of our modern neighbor is important today. Send for the free 16-page booklet, "Know Mexico," Box 1900, New York 19.

Mrs. Charles Enzer Tweedy III

(Bachrach Photo)

Katherine Ann Hutton Is Bride Of Charles Tweedy

Fallsington, Pa. — Miss Katherine Ann Hawkes Hutton of "Shadyside" in Bristol, Bucks Co., Saturday was married to Charles Enzer Tweedy, II of 401 Park Ave., Jasper, Ala.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon John Hutton of "Shadyside." The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Enzer Tweedy, III, of Jasper, Ala.

The wedding took place at 3 p.m. Saturday, in All Saints Episcopal Church in Fallsington. The church was decorated with white roses, carnations, stock and stephanotis.

The reception was held at "Shadyside" in the music room. The reception room was in front of a large antique mirror set above an Italian marble mantle. A buffet was served in three joining marquees on the lawn.

Smilax and white and yellow floral arrangements were the decorations.

For the wedding ceremony, the Rev. Daniel B. Stevick, assistant professor of Christian Education, Liturgics and Homiletics at the Philadelphia Divinity School.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Her gown was of white peau de soie. The bodice was overlaid with Alencon lace and the wrist-length sleeves had lace inserts. The skirt was a traditional dome shape with the back flowing into a chapel train. Her bouffant veil of illusion net was held by a peau de soie princess tiara trimmed with Alencon lace.

The maid of honor was Miss Frances Battaille Mulford of Burlington, N.J.

She wore a long gown of organza over light green taffeta. The bodice, with brief sleves and scoop neckline was embroidered in an over-all pattern. Flowers were a cascade bouquet of daisies, trailing ivy, wood fern and baby's breath.

The bridesmaids were Miss Jana Sue Hutton of Delanco, N.J., Miss Georgia Bibb Tweedy of Birmingham, Ala., Miss Alice Berger of Columbus, N.J., Mrs. John E. Pace of Wynnewood, and Miss Alice Collins of Moorestown, N.J.

Their gowns were the same as the maid's-of-honor, and the flowers were also the same.

The best man was James G. Stewart, Jr. of Prospect, Ky. The ushers were Stephen H. Goff of Berwyn, Christopher S. Smith of Wynnewood, Robert H. Thompson of Jackson, Miss., Dana M. Whitten of Philadelphia, and Thomas A. Wood of St. David's.

The couple took a wedding trip to Bermuda. Her travelling suit was of white linen with an orange silk blouse and a matching orange and white silk turban. White shoes, gloves, and bag completed the bride's costume.

After the trip, the couple will reside at 49-10 Revere Rd. in Drexel Hill.

The bride attended St. Mary's Episcopal Hall in Burlington, N. J. and graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1963.

The groom attended Vanderbilt University and is a fourth year student at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School.

The brid's college clubs were Sphinx and Key, and Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority. The groom plans to be a doctor. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Skull and Bones, Kappa Alpha Southern, and Phi Chi Medical Fraternity.

Miss Georgia Neil Burns Weds M. Bruce Viechnicki

East Stroudsburg — Miss Georgia Niel Burns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Moss of Nashville, Tenn. was married on Saturday morning at 11 a.m. in St. Matthew"s Catholic Church, East Stroudsburg, to Michael Bruce Viechnicki.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Z. J. Viechnicki of 140 Prospect tine, East Stroudsburg.

Rev. John Esseff performed the double-ring ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass. Miss Linda Blewitt of Stroudsburg was organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Elmer Christine, aEst Stroudsburg.

She wore a floor-length gown of silk organza over taffeta with a fitted bodice appliqued with lace and seed pearls. A detachable train fell from the bell shaped skirt in soft pleats. Her veil of imported silk illusion was held by a crown of seed pearls and lilies of the valley. She carried a cascade of shasta daisies and white sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Philip Donatelli, the former Miss Joyce Bosman of East Stroudsburg, was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Miss Emiley Miller and Miss Patricia Miller of 102 Smith St., East Stroudsbburg, cousins of the bride, and Mrs. Kenneth Kutler, formerly Miss Katherine Butler of East Stroudsburg.

The attendants wore floor length gowns of pink linen with their empire waistlines accented with contrasting pink velvet ribbons. Matching double pillbox hats held bouffant veils. The matron of honor carried a cascade of pink shasta daisies and shocking pink geraniums. The bridesmaids carried cascades of pink shasta daisies.

John Viechnicki served as his brothers bestman. Two other brothers, William and Julian Viechnicki, served as ushers with Jerald Sherwin of Wallingford, and Robert Mazolla of Wynnewood.

Mary Katherine Gregory, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Gregory of Nazareth, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a floor-length gown of white silk organza over pink taffeta with an empire waistline. Her hair was tied back with a pink bow and pink shasta daisies. She carried a French basket of pink shasta daisies.

William Todd Moss, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Moss of Nashville, Tenn., brother of the bride, was ring bearer. Danny Belwitt and Joseph Viechnicki, cousins of the bridegroom were altar boys.

The bride's mother wore a dress of greenlace over taffeta with matching accessories and a corsage of phaleonopsis orchids. The bridegroom's mother wore a short-sleeved dress of beige lace over green with matching accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

A reception for 150 guests was held at the Elks Home, East Stroudsburg, with 150 guests. Bill Barth's orchestra furnished music for the dancing.

The bride was graduated from Trousdale Co. High School at Hartsville, Tenn., and East Stroudsburg State College in 1964. She will be teaching at the Paoli School District, Philadelphia.

Her husband was graduated from East Stroudsburg High School and Georgetown University, Washington, D. C. He is a junior at Temple University School of Medicine, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Michael Bruce Viechnicki

2d Annual Wayne County Festival Set July 22-24

Honesdale — Antiques, original art, and hobbies will highlight the Second Annual Wayne County Festival. The event will be held July 22, 23, and 24 at the Honesdale Junior - Senior High School, Terrace Street, Honesdale.

The Woman's Club of Honesdale, sponsor of the affair, has arranged for antique dealers from Pennsylvania, New York, and Maryland to participate, as well as artists from the area. Children's art will also be shown.

The hobby show will cover a multitude of interests from antique cars to miniature woodcarvings. Busses will run hourly at no charge from the "Park and Shop Lot" on Honesdale's Main Street.

Wayne County, in Pennsylvania's northeastern corner, offers much to its visitors, including woods, lakes, and streams, unlimited vacation facilities, and a rich historical background.

Among its well-known native sons are General Lyman L. Lemnitzer, supreme Allied commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in Europe; Art Wall, Jr., professional golfer and winner of the 1959 Masters' Tournament; United States Steel's Roger Blough; and Pulitzer prize-winning journalist, Homer Bigart.

Railroad buffs find the area extremely interesting. America's first steam locomotive, the Stourbridge Lion, made its initial run from Honesdale to Waymart in 1829.

A replica of this engine is maintained by the Wayne County Historical Society and Museum, while the original is displayed at the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C.

The Gravity Railroad was located in Honesdale and its pioneer car may be seen today in Hawley. Honesdale was also a terminal point of the Delaware and Hudson Canal, with remnants of the old two path still much in evidence.

Dorflinger Glass Works in White Mills furnished the crystal used by President Lincoln and also that used by all his successors up to Woodrow Wilson. A piece of Dorflinger glass was the last gift received by the late President Kennedy.

The acknowledgement of this gift was the last sent over Jacqueline Kennedy's signature as First Lady last November.

Numerous other places of interest are located in the area, including the house on Ninth Street in Honesdale where Horace Greeley and several other men first mentioned Abraham Lincoln as a likely presidential candidate.

Designed to attract vacationers in the Pocono and Catskill areas, the Festival will donate all proceeds to various community organizations.

Mt. Pocono WSCS Recently Met In Church

Mt. Pocono — The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church met recently in the church.

The Cherub Choir presented several selections during the program arranged by Miss Winefred Hay. Members of the choir are: Gregory Linn, Elmer Strong, Jeffery Rosen, Patricia Clark, Ruth Meixell, and Wendy Peterson. Mrs. Mason Linn is choir director and Mrs. Charles Sandel, accompanist. Mrs. Neil Coberly showed a film on the work of the United Church Women. Mrs. John Kuhn and Mrs. Gertrude McCarthy lead devotions.

Mrs. Raymond Knorr will handle altar care, for July and Mrs. Wright for August. Mrs. Earl Brock is chairman of the lawn festival to be held on the church lawn, July 11, from 6 to 8 p.m. If it rains it will be held in the social rooms. The young Womens Circle will handle the fish-pond and the fancy goods table. Mrs. Kuhn and Mrs. McCarthy, the cakes, pies and candy.

Mrs. William Wright who presided gave a report on the W.S.C.S. picnic which she and Mrs. McCarthy attended at Nayu-Ag Park Scranton. She received 55 dollars from that project for the W.S.C.S. She introduced a guest, Mrs. Elmer Strong.

Refreshments were served to the 21 present by Mrs. Louis Powers, Mrs. Norman Fanseen, Mrs. Nellie Scharbaugh, and Mrs. Alvin MacWilliams.

Legion Auxiliary Chief Urges Patriotic Reading

Brodheadsville — "Read the Declaration of Independence on July 4th. Read it at family gatherings, picnics, dinners, fireworks displays and other events of the nation's birthday. Read it to your children or read it to yourself."

This is the appeal of Mrs. Hazel Achey, President of West End Memorial Unit 927 of the American Legion Auxiliary, as the people of Monroe County prepare to celebrate the Independence Day holiday. She said:

"Only a few minutes will be required to pause in other activities and gather together to read the inspiring document which proclaimed our country's independent existence and gives the Fourth of July its meaning.

"In those first paragraphs of that Declaration are set forth the basic ideals of the United States of America which have been the foundation upon which this great, free nation has been erected.

"Every American should hear those words at least once a year, and hold them in his heart throughout the year.

OBITUARIES

George Samsel Of Stroudsburg

STROUDSBURG — George Woodward Samsel, 72, of 19 S. Sixth St., Stroudsburg, died at 6:30 a.m. Saturday at the General Hospital of Monroe County.

He was the son of the late John and Matilda Philpot Samsel of Belvidere.

From 1918 to 1934 he operated his own drug store in Portage, Pa., and was forced to retire due to a heart attack. He returned to Stroudsburg in 1942 where he lived until his death.

He graduated from the Belvidere public schools and the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, where he was president of his class and a member of doctor of pharmacy there in the Phi Sigma Theta Fraternity. He received his degree of doctor of pharmacy there in 1915.

He then worked for a short time at Flagler Drug Store in Stroudsburg before he opened his own business.

A former Stroudsburg baseball player, he was active in fostering the athletic program as president of the Portage School Board. He was a member of the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

He was a member of the Crescent Country Club and the Mink Pond, Pike County, Hunting and Fishing Club. A member of the Portage Masonic Lodge, he had won many trophies in Eastern shooting competitions.

He leaves his wife, Ruth Decker Samsel; his daughter, Mrs. George Kubeck of Wyomissing, Pa.; three granddaughters; one sister, Mrs. David Hallock of Stroudsburg.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p.m. from the Daniel G. Warner Funeral Home. Funeral will be in Stroudsburg Cemetery. The Rev. William J. Giles and the Rev. John H. Herb will officiate.

Funeral Notices

SAMSEL, George Woodward, of Stroudsburg, June 27 age 72. Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend funeral services Monday, June 29 at 2 p.m. from the Daniel G. Warner Funeral Home. Interment in the Stroudsburg Cemetery.

WARNER

Edwin F. Flory, Bangor Railman

BANGOR — Edwin F. Flory, 91, died Thursday in Easton Hospital. He was admitted June 4.

He was born in Plainfield Twp., the son of the late Samuel and Mary Hartzell Flory. He was a foreman of the DL&W railroad for 46 years before his retirement in 1944.

He was a member of the First United Evangelical Church of Bangor and a life member of Bangor Lodge F&AM 565. He received his 50-year pin in 1955.

Flory was a member of the Lehigh Consistory, 32nd degree Masons of Allentown.

He was also a life member of the Bangor Elks 1106, the Green Pond Golf Club, and the Erie - Lackawanna Veterans Assn.

Flory was married twice. His first wife was Elza Mack Flory, the mother of three children. She died in 1900. His second wife was Flora Weidman Flory; she died in 1934.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Lulu Wells of Bangor; a son, Verne Flory Sr. of Fort Pierce, Fla.

Another daughter, Miss Alta P. Flory, died in 1961.

Funeral services will be held today at 3 p.m. in the Miller Funeral Home, Bangor. Burial will be in St. John's Reformed Cemetery, Bangor.

Harold Slack, Former Resident

QUAKERTOWN — Mr. Harold Slack, 57, former resident of Stroudsburg, silk worker, died Sunday at 5 a.m. in his home in Quakertown, RD. He had been in failing health for the past year.

Mr. Slack is the son of Mrs. Millie Slack of Stroudsburg and the late George Ray Slack. He was a member of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Hazel Bisbing of Hamden, Conn.; Mrs. Mildred Cuff of Conshohocken; three brothers, Claude of Stroudsburg; George of Falls Church, Va., and Alfred Slack of North Haven, Conn.

Funeral services will be held in the Lanterman Funeral Home Wednesday at 2 p.m.

The Rev. Louis Johnson will officiate. Burial will be in the Prospect Cemetery of East Stroudsburg.

H. Whitmore Funeral Services

EAST STROUDSBURG — The funeral of Howard Whitmore, 54, of 150 West Broad St., East Stroudsburg, was held Sunday at 2 p.m. from the Lanterman Funeral Home.

The Rev. Louis Johnson officiated. Burial was in Prospect Cemetery in East Stroudsburg.

Pallbearers were Paul Featherman, Paul Schouppe, Floyd Bush, Alfred Platte, Jesse Bond and Harold Roth.

R.G. Schneider Services Held

STROUDSBURG — Funeral services were held Sunday at 2 p.m. for the late Richard G. Schneider, 61 of Stroudsburg, RD 5, at the Daniel G. Warner Funeral Home.

Burial was in St. Marks Lutheran Cemetery in Appenzel. The Rev. Charles A. Adami officiated.

Pallbearers were Marvin Smith, John Miller, Sr., John Miller Jr., George Miller, Robert Shook and Oliver Van Buskirk Jr.

C. S. Williams, Former Resident

CONWAY, Ark. — Arkansas State Teachers College Professor Clarence Stewart Williams, 47, died at his home in Conway, Friday morning.

He was born in Stroudsburg, son of the late Mary and Clarence Williams. He attended Stroudsburg public schools, and was a graduate of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Williams is survived by his wife, Eddie Williams; a daughter, Jeriann; four sisters, Mrs. John Bonner of Calif., Mrs. Ralph Paul, Mrs. Calvin, Lockard, Mrs. John Albert, and a brother, Floyd A. Sr., all of Stroudsburg.

Services and burial took place Sunday in Conway.

St. John's Lays New Cornerstone

STROUDSBURG — More than 250 attended the official cornerstone ceremonies at St. John's Lutheran Church of Stroudsburg Sunday at 11:45 a.m. The renovated St. John's boasts a 1750 colonial Williamsburg, Va., decor.

The Rev. William C. Leopold, pastor, officiated. David Buck was crucifer. Ronald Yost and Paul Cobb were flag bearers.

Various items of historic significance were cemented with the cornerstone. Rev. Leopold inserted the Holy Bible.

Other officials who inserted items were:

George T. Robinson, vice president of the church council, a copy of the constitution and by-laws of the congregation; Alfred W. Munson, secretary of the church council, the annual report of the congregation for 1963, and the church bulletin; Donald L. Cramer, representative of the men of the congregation, several coins of this years vintage.

Also, Mrs. Daniel Lyons, representative of the women of the congregation, a copy of "The Lutheran"; Michael Hammond, son of the superintendent of the church school, a register of the officers, teachers and students of the church school.

Also, Edwin F. Buck, chairman of the executive building committee, a copy of The Stroudsburg Daily Record; Arthur Henning, chairman of the building fund committee, a copy of the fund raising brochure; The Honorable Chester H. Rhodes, President Judge, Superior Court of Pennsylvania, representing the Judiciary of the Commonwealth, the yearbook of the Lutheran Church in America.

Also, John Price, Monroe County Commissioner, a resolution of the county commissioner's noting the occasion and a survey map of the county.

Joseph Small, Mayor of Stroudsburg, a small plaque engraved with the names of the original borough council and the names of the present borough council.

Also, Howard DeNike, representing the Monroe County Historical Society, a historical map of Monroe County; the holdings of the society; and a brochure 'Jacob Stroud — Founder of Stroudsburg' by Dr. Alfred D. Sumberg.

Also Robert Pinder, representative of the Borough Planning and Zoning Commission, the original Borough Survey, a present map of the borough and a commission prospectus.

Also, Paul L. Edinger, representative of the general contractor, Edinger and Son, a shop drawing from the construction files, and Dr. Charles A. Scheuringer, F.A.D., of the architectural firm of Scheuringer Assoc., credentials of the firm.

Salvation Army Still At Scene

EAST STROUDSBURG — Capt. Rex Worthy, new commanding officer of the Salvation Army in East Stroudsburg, last night told The Daily Record that Salvation Army workers will remain on duty at the Marshalls Creek disaster scene as long as they are needed.

Capt. Worthy said, "We arrived on the scene with our canteen Friday at 5:45 a.m. and we will remain as long as we are needed."

As of Saturday night more than 75 gallons of hot coffee and cold drinks have been donated to volunteer workers at the scene. Also distributed to the workers there were more than 600 sandwiches, several dozen doughnuts and cakes.

Cy Barrett Says

Flexibility Counts

DEAR CY:

We're two guys who dreamed of pyramiding $800 into $100,000 quickly. Things are going very slowly, but we see sidetracks which look lucrative. "We don't want to spread ourselves too thin or get in the hibit of going off on tangents" is my partner's thinking. I feel if Christopher Columbus could start out to prove the world was round and find America, we could afford to shift. Either one of us will give in to the other. What's your reasoning?

TWO GUYS

DEAR TWO GUYS:

Many businesses endure constant intestinal conflicts between hewing the line and crossing fences toward greener pastures. Sometimes, through accident, new processes, new markets and new opportunities are unearthed which command pursuit.

For instance, in 1929, Paul Galvin wasn't even doing a middling job in the battery business. Batteries were tied in to radios and Galvin got the bright idea of producing radios for automobiles. From 1929 until 1934, his Motorola company practically owned the auto radio market. Serendipity, according to Horace Walpole, is "The art of finding the unusual or the pleasantly unexpected by chance or sagacity." Serendipity, or accidental discovery, was responsible for Sir Alexander Fleming bringing penicillin to the world.

Three young men, Patch Caradine, Stephen Bruce and Calvin Holt, make serendipity their business, going off on any tangent which looks like money. In 1954, they started a small basement store on 58th Street in New York City, with the unlikely name of Serendipity 3. Before the year was out, they were selling new hats that looked old, old restaurant ware, espesso coffee makers and homemade pastries.

Caradine tells me, "Signs of growth were immediate because we were growing from practically nothing." Serendipity 3, now on 60th St., is a confused profession of unusual custom fashions, gifts, food, accidental discoveries. Each new business is as unique as its originators.

DEAR CY:

I just got my first unemployment check for $45. Do I have to pay taxes on unemployment compensation? If not, this is a wonderful way of life.

CHECKER

DEAR CHECKER:

Unemployment compensation checks are not taxable but have a strange way of distributing calories. With sustained indulgence, they will make you thin from the neck down and fat from the neck up.

CY

• • •

DEAR CY:

I am 45 years old (ready for the scrap heap, according to most) and want a better paying secretarial job. I have no shorthand and light bookkeeping but can furnish the best of references as to dictaphone work, filing and records. The most I have been able to get is $72.50 per week which is very little considering my ability and experience. In 17 years of work, I have had only three jobs. How can I abtain a better paying job?

BARBARA V. V.

DEAR BARBARA:

According to the latest U. S. department of labor statistics figures, $80 per week is the average wage for a general stenographer. Grade yourself up or down from there, taking local pay scales into consideration. Perhaps you are getting a fair salary right now. If underpaid, with no hope for increase, follow normal job search procedures. See employment agencies. Read newspaper classified ads. Run newspaper classified ads, and explore the possibilities of civil service jobs. I make but one guarantee. Think you are "ready for the scrap heap" and you are.

S-burg A's Win; Remain In First

STROUDSBURG — The Stroudsburg A's maintained their first-place hold in the Pocono Mountain Baseball League yesterday with a 5-2 win over Bowmanstown while Kunkletown remained one game off the pace by snapping Bushkill's six-game winning streak, 6-3.

In other games, the Stroudsburg Poconos handed West End its 11th straight loss, 3-2 in 10 innings, and Reeders defeated Saylorsburg, 6-2.

Tom Barrow went the distance for the first-place A's, scattering seven hits while striking out eight. The win was the ninth in 11th starts. Tom Eckhart also went the route for the losers, striking out 10. He allowed but one earned run but was the victim of three costly errors.

Hard Hits

Three of the six hits by the A's went for extra bases — a triple by Hartley Paffenroth, and a pair of doubles by Charley Chronister and Lou Sommers.

Kunkletown, meanwhile, registered its eighth win against three losses by scoring four runs in the first inning against Bushkill to lead all the way.

Kresge hurled the route for the winners, dishing out eight hits while chalking up as many strikeouts. He issued only one walk.

Bushkill's Bob Butterworth was the victim of Kunkletown's hard hitting in the first frame when he was socked for three doubles by Kresge, Meckes and Nicholas. Nicholas was the top batter for Kunkletown with three hits.

Litts Homers

The Stroudsburg Poconos scored their fifth win against six defeats against winless West End by scoring a run in the bottom of the 10th for a 3-2 victory.

The young Pocono combine registered a total of seven stolen bases — two by Dave Pierson and Warren Loney each, and Moreken, Fred Frantz and Farris.

Loney hurled the route for the winners, scattering six hits while fanning six. Possinger went the route for West End, yielding eight hits and whiffing five.

The Saylorsburg Lakers tallied three runs in the top of the sixth to pick up their fourth win against seven defeats. Paul Frailey went all the way for the victory, striking out nine batters while doling out five hits. The loss was the fifth in 11 starts for Reeders.

Mira Stars

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — George Mira has passed his first test against the giants he must handle if he is to make the grade in the pros with the San Francisco 49ers.

The 5-foot-1 quarterback from the University of Miami, Fa., thried 21,112 fans at Saturday game with a brilliant exhibition of passing.

Mira completed 14 of 20 in the second half and 21 of 40 during the night for 396 yards in leading the underdog East to an 18-15 victory over the West at War Memorial Stadium.

Yanks, Tigers Split Twin Bill

NEW YORK (AP) — Gates Brown's seventh inning home run gave the Detroit Tigers a 6-5 second game victory over New York after the Yankees had rallied to take the opener of their doubleheader Sunday on Tom Tresh's eighth inning grand slam.

The Tigers, who blew a 6-2 lead in the opener, lost a 5-2 lead in the second game before Brown's sixth homer delivered the deciding run.

Three Quick Runs

Detroit hopped on Yankee starter Rollie Shedon for three quick runs in the first inning but New York got two back in its half. The Tigers got two more in the third but the Yankees pecked away at the margin with a run in the fourth and two more in the fifth to tie it.

Brown's first pitch shot off Sheldon in the seventh then put Detroit on top to stay. Joe Sparma, who relieved Tiger starter Mickey Lolich in the sixth, checked the Yankees the rest of the way to gain his first major league victory.

Tresh's eighth inning shot following singles by Hector Lopez and Phil Linz and a walk to Mickey Mantle, broke up the opener.

The grand slam, Tresh's eighth homer of the year, overcame two homers by Detroit's Don Demeter and another by Dick McAuliffe.

Orioles Win 6th Straight Over Nats

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles scored two runs in the top of the eighth inning Sunday to beat the Washington Senators 6-4, extending their winning streak to six games and handing the Senators their sixth straight defeat.

Dave Stenhouse, just returned from the disabled list, had turned in a strong six-inning relief job when Norm Siebern singled to lead off the eighth. Brooks Robinson sacrificed and John Orsino reached base when John Kennedy permitted Orsino's grounder to get away for an error, Siebern going to third.

Kline Relieves

Ron Kline relieved Stenhouse and Siebern scored on Willie Kirkland's sacrifice fly. Orsino scored all the way from first when Don Lock failed to hold Jerry Adair's fly to center for a two-base error.

The Orioles jumped off to a 3-0 lead on Al Koch on Jackie Brandt's double, a walk to Boog Powell, Robinson's double and Orsino's single.

Twins Rock Chisox, 9-3

ST. PAUL—MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota unleashed a six-run rally in the seventh inning, including Harmon Killebrew's 27th homer and Bob Allison's 20th, to defeat Chicago 9-3 Sunday.

The score was tied at 3-3 when Zoilo Versalles started the power show with his eighth homer of the year. Rich Rollins singled and Killebrew socked a 410-foot homer into the left field bleachers for his 58th and 59th RBI. Allison followed with his shot.

The Twins' Al Worthington picked up the victory in relief—his first American League decision since he was bought from San Diego a few days ago. Reliever Eddie Fischer of Chicago suffered his second loss against three victories.

The Twins pushed across two runs in the second when Jim Snyder doubled off Chicago starter Fred Talbot. Rollins singled home a run in the fifth for a 3-0 lead, but the White Sox tied it up in the sixth.

Chicago put together four singles and a hit batsman off Dick Stigman in that inning, with Gerry McNertney knocking in two runs and Dave Nicholson driving in the other.

Cincy Sweeps Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Cincinnati swept a Sunday doubleheader from Pittsburgh, winning the nightcap 6-5 with a five-run outburst in the third inning after pounding five Pirate hurlers for 11 hits and a 6-2 victory in the opener.

The Reds bombed Pirate starter Bob Friend for five hits in the third inning of the second game. John Edwards' bases-loaded double scored three runs, and two more came home on Leo Cardenas' double and Steve Boros' single.

Narrow Deficit

The Pirates narrowed the deficit to 5-4 in the fourth on Willie Stargell's solo home run and Jim Pagliaroni's two-run homer.

Cardenas hit a bases-loaded sacrifice fly to center field that scored another Cincinnati run in the seventh.

Pete Rose led Cincinnati's attack in the opener with three singles and ran his consecutive hit string to seven before relief pitcher Elroy Face struck him out in the fifth.

Second Game

Cincinnati 005 000 100—6 13 0
Pittsburgh 100 300 001—5 12 1

Maloney, Ellis (8), McCool (9) and Edwards; Friend, Butters (4), McBean (7) and Pagliaroni. W — Maloney, 6-8. L — Friend 6-7.

U. S. Thinclads Set 4 Records

By BOB GREEN

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Four meet records were broken in short order Sunday as America's premier track and field athletes made the National AAU Championships a stepping stone to Tokyo.

But Bob Hayes put at least a minor crimp in U.S. hopes of regaining Olympic sprint supremacy. Hayes, the only man to run 100 yards in 9.1 seconds, pulled a muscle in his left leg while winning the 100 meter dash Saturday and announced he was skipping next week's Olympic Trials.

Little Doubt

There appeared little doubt that Olympic officials would exercise their right to make special provisions in special cases, especially where a man has been injured.

The early record setters were veteran hammer thrower Hal Connoly of Cuver City, Calif., with a winning throw of 226-5½; Jerry Siebert of the Santa Cara Valley Youth Village with 1:47.2 for 800 meters; lanky Bob Schul of the Dayton Track Club with 12:56.2 for 5,000 meters and Ron Zinn of the U. S. Army with 13:48.2 for the two-mile walk.

Al Oerter, the 1960 Olympic champion who has a pending world record of 206-5¾, had a rather disappointing winning performance of 201-1½, one half inch short of the meet record.

Major Upset

Mike Larrabee, 30-year-old school teacher representing the Southern California Striders, pulled a major upset when he won the 400 meters in 46 second flat. He beat Robbie Brightwell of England by inches. Adolph Plummer and defending champion Ulis Williams, were fourth and fifth, respectively.

Those performances went along with meet record breaking performances Saturday by Fred Hansen, a 17-foot pole vault; Randy Matson, a 64-11 shot put; and Pete McArdle, a 30:11 10,000-meters run.

The two-day meet, served as qualifying grounds for both the Olympic Trials and the U. S. team that will meet Russia in a dual meet next month.

A's Blank Angels

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kansas City scored two unearned runs in the first inning and went on to beat the Los Angeles Angels 4-0 Sunday behind the five-hit pitching of Diego Segui.

The Athletics pounded Angel starter Barry Latman in the first inning after center fielder Lennie Green dropped a fly by Nelson Mathews. Manny Jimenez crashed a run-scoring double and Bill Bryan followed with a triple.

Lema Beats Palmer In A Sudden Death

By FRITZ HOWELL

CLEVELAND (AP) — Tony Lema sank a 15-foot birdie putt on the first extra hole Sunday after missing an eight-incher on on the closing hole and won the $100,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament in a sudden death playoff with Arnold Palmer.

They had tied at 270, 14 under par, for the regulation route.

Lema, who started the final round in a five-way deadlock three strokes back of Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, birdied five straight holes from the fifth through the ninth to move into a tie with Palmer at the turn.

Lema captured two more birdies coming home to take a one-stroke edge. On the final hole his six-foot putt for a birdie rickled just past the cup and the eight-incher rolled around the hole and failed to drop.

Top Prize

It could have cost him $1,000 an inch, but his birdie on the first extra hole gave him the $20,000 top prize while Palmer settled for $12,000.

Palmer moved out in front in the money winning race with a total of $61,651. Lema breezed into second with $60,561, $49,000 of which has come in his last four tournaments.

Lema won the Bing Crosby, Thunderbird and Flint tournaments earlier this year and his four conquests are double those of anyone else on the tour. A year ago Lema tied Palmer and Tommy Aaron here at 273, but Palmer won the playoff.

Lema said he stayed at the 18th green until Palmer arrived and watched Palmer's 18-foot putt, which would have won the tournament, hit the back of the cup and stay out.

"It Was Justice"

"I thought it was justice that he should miss that long one after I missed the short one," Lema said.

On the fifth through the ninth holes, Lema dropped putts of 15, 15, 8, 5 and 18 feet for birdis, dropped a 40-footer on No. 14 for a birdie and two-putted from 45 feet on No. 16 for another.

Palmer said he had one of his better rounds for his 68.

"I hit all 18 greens in regulation figures but two putted all of them except the first, third and 15th where I got birdies," Palmer said. "I hit the cup at least five times but they stayed out. Why the one on 18 didn't go in, I'll never know.

Good And Bad

"Well you get some good ones and you have to expect some bad ones."

Nicklaus, who started the day deadlocked with Palmer, fell two strokes back on the first hole, where he bogeyed and Palmer birdied. He never caught up.

Terry Dill of Muleshoe, Tex., who had won less than $4,000 this year, won much more than that as he tied Nicklaus for third place.

Deadlocked at 274 in fifth place were Billy Casper, Don January, Bruce Devlin and Ed Griffiths, the latter a hometown pro making his first appearance of the year on the tour.

Phils Split; Giants Win

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals took advantage of six Philadelphia errors and a 14-hit attack for an 8-2 victory in the second game of a doubleheader Sunday.

The Phillies won the opener 5-0 behind the five-hit pitching of Chris Short despite three more miscues.

The split dropped the Phillies out of first place, two percentage points behind San Francisco which defeated Los Angeles, 1-0.

Wins Eighth

Bill White collected four hits and drove in three runs in the nightcap as Ray Sadecki won his eighth game against six defeats.

The Cardinals broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning with the aid of an interference call on the catcher, one of 14 Philadelphia errors in three games.

Short hurled a five-hitter, struck out eight and didn't walk a man for his sixth triumph in 10 decisions. His sacrifice fly scored the first Philadelphia run.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants pushed across a run in the bottom of the eighth inning and got tight pitching from Ron Herbel and Billy O'Dell to edge the Los Angeles Dodgers 1-0 Sunday and complete a sweep of their four game series.

Herbel and Don Drysdale dueled through seven innings before the Giants broke through. Singles by Harvey Kuenn and Willie Mays and an intentional walk loaded the bases.

Alou Scores

Orlando Cepeda walloped a long drive towards the right field fence and when Frank Howard made a spectacular one-handed catch, Jesus Alou, running for Kuenn, scored.

Both teams had threatened earlier but Herbel and Drysdale pitched their way out of the jams.

The Dodgers rallied in the ninth, knocking out Herbel on singles by Ron Fairly and Howard. O'Dell came on to retire the side.

Milwaukee Defeats Mets Twice

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Henry Aaron and Rico Carty backed up Tony Cloninger's six-hit pitching with three-run homers, giving the Milwaukee Braves a 9-0 second game victory and a sweep of a double header with the New York Mets Sunday.

The Braves scored six runs in the first inning of the opener and held off the Mets 7-6.

Lary Bombed

Frank Lary matched zeros with Cloninger through four innings of the nightcap, but was bombed for five runs in the fifth. Three singles, a walk and a wild pitch produced two runs. Aaron then hit his 11th home run.

An inning later, Carty belted his seventh homer off Darrell Sutherland, making his second appearance of the day after being knocked out in the first inning of the opener.

Key Blow

A two-run triple by Gene Oliver was the key blow in the first game assault which pinned Sutherland with the defeat in his first major league appearance. Aaron contributed a two run single.

Hazen Honored

TOBYHANNA — Jim Hazen, district fish warden of Monroe County who is leaving his post July 1, was honored at a dinner Thursday by the Monroe County Federation of Sportsmens Club and the wardens who have worked with him in the NCO Club.

Hazen, who has served the area since 1958, has been transferred to Philadelphia.

Eastburg Wins Tennis Match

CLARK SUMMITT — East Stroudsburg yesterday defeated Scranton, 5-4, in a Lehigh Valley Tennis League match.

The win was the second in five matches for the victors.

Winning for the Eastburg club in singles competition were Burt Reese, Dr. Sherwood Samet and Jim Frederick.

In the doubles competition, the Eastburg winners were Dick Baker and Reese and Dr. Samet and Frederick.

Wins Race

ROUEN, France (AP) — Dan Guerney of Costa Mesa, Calif., driving the same Brabham car that ran out of gas and cost him a victory two weeks ago, won the 231.7-mile Grand Prix of France automobie race Sunday.

from ages 18 and over. Prepare now for U. S. Civil Service job openings in this area during the next 12 months.

Government positions pay high starting salaries. They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or experience.

But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competition is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.

Lincoln Service helps thousands prepare for these tests every year. It is one of the largest and oldest privately owned schools of its kind and is not connected with the Government.

Record Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — Payment of $51,521.92 has been approved for Monroe County by the State Department of Revenue as the county's share of a $7.8 million refund to counties throughout the state from liquid fuels tax collections for the six-month period ending June 1.

The department said the money must be spent by the county commissioners within the corporate limits of the county for construction, improvement and maintenance of county roads and bridges.

The funds are allocated to townships and boroughs within the county at the discretion of the commissioners — not the Department of Revenue.

In December the county received $58,711.61 in liquid fuels tax refunds covering the last half of 1963.

As a point of comparison with the six-month payment that has just been approved, Monroe County for the comparable first half period of 1963 received $46,293.11.

Eight Years ago the June payment for the county amounted to $44,559.77, according to department records.

The statewide allocation of $7,862,233 is $1,097,144 lower than for the preceding six-month period but $797,915 higher than the amount returned during the corresponding period.

Witnesses To Attend July Seminar

EAST STROUDSBURG — Stephen Bortlik, presiding minister of the East Stroudsburg Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, announced that the East Stroudsburg Congregation will go to Wilkes-Barre for a district four-day training seminar July 16-19.

According to Bortlik, there will be about 6,000 ministers at the gathering.

"This convention is one of 64 that will be held in various parts of the United States and Canada this summer. The reason why so many of our ministers and friends attend these conventions is because at these advanced training schools they receive Bible knowledge through an intensive study of God's Word," Bortlik said. Sessions will run from 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. on some days, he added.

Last year the large summer conventions of Jehovah's Witnesses traveled around the world. Over 500 delegates, traveling in a fleet of chartered jet liners, circled the globe. The total attendance last year for the Sunday public talk was 580,509.

The Smithsonian Institution's new Museum of History and Technology has the original Star Spangled Banner on display.

Borough of Stroudsburg, Pa.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed bids will be received by the Borough of Stroudsburg for furnishing approximately 130 tons of bituminous concrete ID-2 and approximately 600 tons of Bituminous Concrete FJ-1.

Copies of the Specifications may be obtained at the office of the Stroudsburg Borough Manager, Municipal Building, Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania.

The successful bidder is required to furnish a Performance Bond in the amount of fifty per cent (50%) of the amount of the contract within ten days after the contract has been awarded and upon failure to execute a proper agreement or to furnish Bond within such time the previous award shall be void.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a certified check in an amount equal to ten per cent (10%) of the amount of the bid. The certified check will be retained to pay for any damage or loss to the Borough in case the successful bidder shall neglect or refuse to enter into a contract in accordance with his bid.

Sealed bids must be in the hands of Harold E. Snyder, Borough Manager, Municipal Building, Stroudsburg, Pa., not later than 7:30 o'clock, P. M., (E.D.S.T.), July 8, 1964, at which time said bids will be opened and read in open meeting of the Council in the Council Room in the Municipal Building.

By Order of the Borough Council.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Monday, June 29, 1964

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Time is important, but don't let the thought of it rush you into hasty moves, decisions. Confusion can reign if the guard is down.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Rationalize, think things out with logic before making important moves — and just about every move WILL be important. No excuses now for misguided efforts.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Even though the day may begin slowly, it can and should be a happy memory later. Many openings for the willing, alert and consistent.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — More auspicious influences than for many. Choose the hours for action astutely; choose those for curtailing as smartly. Shun mere chance-taking.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Your dynamic energy and general magnetism will carry you far if you are directing endeavors with thought and foresight.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Though there is a favorable outlook, some not entirely successful operations need an added "shot in the arm" — new methods, tightening up, maybe just newer information.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Decide early how you must proceed and do not permit moves or plans of others to keep you from pursuing worthwhile goals. You can accomplish a great deal now.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — If others want to make changes, evaluate carefully before dissenting — they may be for the best. If you truly feel they are not right, work with logic to avert confusion and improve the situation.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—To gain confidences and impress, one extends a hand and cooperates willingly — sometimes first, as you must now. Don't expect more than is reasonable and do be happy.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Saturn auspicious. Activities should be handled evenly so as not to lap over too much in any direction. Start with a tempo you can keep — and do.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Weigh fitness and the validity of action and proposed action carefully. Keep your eye on the horizon as you turn your wheels.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Better-than-average opportunities for you to leap ahead, and if one matter seems sluggish, don't think they all are. Your outlook very important.

YOU BORN TODAY are clever and eager to please. Your vocal qualities (speaking or singing) can be profitably developed. You are endowed with a fine memory and discriminating taste; may do best in business with more successful partners. You are a natural humanitarian, historian, conjurer of "tall (and very interesting) tales." In all, keep those feet on the ground as new ideas soar. Birthdate of: Peter Paul Rubens, Flemish painter; G. W. Goethals, builder of the Panama Canal.

We have 2 of these popular models:
'63 CHEVROLET
BelAir 4-Door
STATION WAGONS
One is turquoise; the other is styled in Newport and Manchester blue with whitewall tires. Both are local, one-owner cars with low mileage and in exceptionally fine condition. They're equipped with Powerglide transmission, power steering, power brakes, radio and heater. Both need a good home where they will be able to serve a deserving family and be well cared for in return!
These Chevy wagons are just like new in every respect except price. In fact, right now you can save $1200 off the comparable new car price!
